Action Items

Minutes of November 21, 2018 Meeting
· On a motion from Kelly Kulzer-Reyes, second by Kanoe Bandy, the minutes were approved.

OER Liaison
· Mike Jiles as the ASC representative has volunteered to be the OER Liaison.
· Mike Jiles as the OER Liaison moves forward to Senate of the Whole by consensus.

Succession Planning
· There are currently two nominations for president: Sharyn Eveland and Kelly Kulzer-Reyes.
· Vicki Jacobi shared that Geoffrey Dyer nominated Terry Smith as Secretary; she accepted.
· Kanoe Bandy accepts the Applied Technology Representative on ASC.
· Debora Rodenhauser accepts Liberal Arts Representative on ASC.

Administrative Retreat Rights Policy
· The BP 7250 is updated using the Community College League of California’s most updated template information.
· The Faculty Association has a draft board policy that reads more like contract language and appears to be more of a Administrative Procedure (AP) rather than a Board Policy (BP).
· On a motion by Kanoe Bandy, second by Debora Rodenhauser, the Administrative Retreat Rights Policy was approved to move forward to Senate of the Whole with the recommendation to change to an Academic Procedure and update the language to be consistent with other APs.

Nomination for Emeritus Status
· The Math and Science Division has nominated Brian Jean for Emeritus status.
· On a motion by Kelly Kulzer-Reyes, second by Candace Duron, the nomination of Brian Jean for Emeritus status was approved to move forward to Senate of the Whole.

Criteria for Faculty Position Requests
· When recruiting and hiring, keep in mind BP 7100 and 7120, the ASCCC paper, and Faculty Minimum Qualifications list.
· There is an interest in having conversations with a small group (at one time that group was the Division Chairs), gathering all the Division needs, and understanding the vision/goals of the college (through continually dialog with the President) when making the faculty position requests.
· On a motion by Vicki Jacobi, second by Tony Thompson, the criteria for faculty position requests be developed by Division Chairs with recommendation for faculty positions to come from the Division Chairs as an action item to the Academic Senate, was approved to move forward to Senate of the Whole.

Minimum Qualifications, Equivalency, & Assigning Courses to Disciplines
· It is on the Curriculum agenda to develop a process to assign courses to disciplines including a notation on the Course Outline of Record. Then the Curriculum Committee will look at minimum qualifications and equivalency within the disciplines looking at minimum qualifications and course content knowledge.
· Questions have been raised about the pre-screening done by Human Resources. HR staff attended the ASCCC training. HR cannot pre-screen for equivalency.

Information/Discussion Items

ASCCC Faculty Diversity Hiring Regional: BC, February 21st.

Proposed Title 5 Regulations for AB 705

BP 7250  Educational Administrators

Reference:

Education Code Sections 72411 et seq., 87002(b), and 87457-87460; Government Code Section 3540.1(g) and (m)

An administrator is a person employed by the Board in a supervisory or management position as defined in Government Code Sections 3540, et seq.

Educational administrators are those who exercise direct responsibility for supervising the operation of or formulating policy regarding the instructional or student services programs of the District.

An educational administrator who has not previously acquired tenure as a faculty member in the District shall have the right to become a first year probationary faculty member once his or her administrative assignment expires or is terminated, if the following criteria are met:

1. The administrator meets the criteria established by the District for minimum qualifications for a faculty position, in accordance with procedures developing jointly by the Superintendent/President and the Academic Senate and approved by the Board. The Board shall rely primarily on the advice and judgment of the Academic Senate to determine that an administrator possesses minimum qualifications for employment as a faculty member.

2. The requirements of Education Code Section 87458(c) and (d), or any successor statute, are met with respect to prior satisfactory service and reason for termination of the administrative assignment.

3. The District has a vacancy for which the administrator meets minimum qualifications.

4. The administrator has completed at least three years of satisfactory District service.

Educational administrators shall be compensated in the manner provided for by the appointment or contract of employment. Compensation shall be set by the Board upon recommendation by the Superintendent/President. Educational Administrators shall further be entitled to health and welfare benefits made available by action of the Board upon recommendation by the Superintendent/President.

Educational administrators shall be entitled to vacation leave, sick leave, and other leaves as provided by law, these policies, and administrative procedures adopted by the Superintendent/President.
Every educational administrator shall be employed by an appointment or contract of up to 4 years in duration.

The Board may, with the consent of the administrator concerned, terminate, effective on the next succeeding first day of July, the terms of employment and any contract of employment with the administrator, and reemploy the administrator on any terms and conditions as may be mutually agreed upon by the Board and the administrator, for a new term to commence on the effective date of the termination of the existing term of employment.

If the Board determines that the administrator is not to be reemployed when his/her appointment or contract expires, notice to an administrator shall be in accordance with the terms of the existing contract. If the contract is silent, notice shall be in accordance with Education Code Section 72411.

*See Administrative Procedure 7251[?]
Educational administrators are eligible to retreat to faculty status through the following procedure and by the criteria delineated herein.

Educational Administrators without Prior Faculty Tenure Rights in the West Kern Community College District

An educational administrator employed on or after July 1, 1990, who has not previously acquired tenured status as a faculty member of the WKCC District shall have the right of assignment as a first-year probationary faculty member once his/her administrative assignment ends, or if the administrator’s request for assignment is approved, if all of the following apply:

1. The administrator has completed at least three years of satisfactory District service.
2. The termination of the administrative assignment is for any reason other than dismissal for cause.
3. There are sufficient assignments in the discipline or service currently held by temporary faculty to make a full-time assignment for an additional faculty member.
4. The administrator is not replacing a regular (tenured) faculty member or a contract (probationary) faculty member.
5. The assignments of the administrators will be governed as follows:

   A. The administrator shall only be assigned to a discipline in which he/she holds the appropriate credential or meets the minimum qualifications.

   B. The Academic Senate will determine that the administrator possesses the appropriate credential or minimum qualifications for employment as a faculty member.

   C. The Academic Senate may present its views on the assignment in writing to the Board of Trustees together with the recommendation presented to the Board by the Superintendent/President.

   D. The written record of the decision, including the views of the Academic Senate, shall be available for review pursuant to Education Code 87358.

Educational or Classified Administrators with Prior Faculty Tenure Rights in the West Kern Community College District
An administrator with prior faculty tenure rights in the WKCC District shall retain his/her status as a tenured faculty member (Education Code 87454) and shall be able to return to a faculty position in a discipline in which they hold the appropriate credential or meet the minimum qualifications as follows:

1. The administrator is not replacing a regular (tenured) faculty member or a contract (probationary) faculty member unless the cause of reassignment is due to a reduction in force.
2. The administrator’s current seniority rank will be used if the cause for return to the classroom is a reduction in force.
3. The return of the administrator to a faculty position shall be governed as follows:

   A. The administrator shall notify the District of his/her intention to return to a faculty assignment at the beginning of the next academic year by February 1 of the current year.

   B. The administrator will be returned to a faculty position in a discipline in which they hold the appropriate credential or meet the minimum qualifications at the beginning of the next academic year.

Administrator Retreat Rights:
An Introduction and A Model Procedure

Administrator Retreat Rights:
An Introduction and A Model Procedure

Introduction:

Assembly Bill 1725, section 87458, made an important change in the employment rights of certificated administrators. This document is intended to explain the provisions of the law on this matter and to provide one model for how a local district might establish its Administrator Retreat Rights Procedure. This material has not been debated or adopted by the Academic Senate and is being distributed at this time to obtain comment with the expectation that it will be debated, amended, and adopted at the Spring Session. In the meantime, it will hopefully also help to inform local senates about the issues which should be considered in developing a local procedure.

Certificated administrators used to acquire faculty tenure. Under the new law, they do not acquire faculty tenure. (Although if they had it when they became an administrator, they do retain it or, if they are hired before June 30, 1990, they can acquire it under the terms of prior law.) However, certificated administrators can acquire the right to become first-year probationary faculty members. They acquire this right only if all of the following are satisfied:

1. There is a process in place for accomplishing this reassignment. That process must be agreed upon jointly by the board and the academic senate. Until there has been an agreement, the district may use the one that was already in existence on January 1, 1989, if any. If the district did not have such a policy in existence on that date and if there has been no agreement, then there would be no retreat right at all.

2. The administrator is being transferred for some reason other than cause; his or her work has been satisfactory.

3. The administrator has worked in the district at least two years.

4. The administrator's position is not part of the classified service.
Administrator Retreat Rights Procedure

The Administrator Retreat Rights Procedure must, then, work in a way that is as clear and precise as the layoff and bumping procedures for faculty and, at the same time, both be fair to the administrator and ensure that the administrator will be able to function as a faculty member at a level consistent with that expected of those who are hired as faculty members. Such a procedure must settle several questions:

1. Which administrators have this right?

2. In which discipline or disciplines does the administrator possess the minimum qualifications required by law? How is this determination made: by whom and when?

3. If the administrator possesses the minimum qualifications in more than one area or in an area that is offered at more than one location or college within the district, how is it determined to which discipline or location the administrator is assigned?

4. What should be specified about the rights of management to reassign administrators other than those who have a right to reassignment, for example, classified administrators or administrators with less than two years of successful experience? Indeed, although the law specifies that administrators dismissed for cause do not have a right to reassignment, unless additional language is adopted in this policy or somewhere, a district could agree voluntarily to reassign such an administrator.
A Model Administrator Retreat Rights Procedure

In order to properly balance the rights of students, administrators, and faculty, and in accordance with Education Code Section 87458, the Community College District adopts the following Administrator Retreat Rights Policy.

This policy does not apply to certificated administrators hired before the effective date for these sections of Assembly Bill 1725, (June 30, 1990). A tenured employee, when assigned from a faculty position to an administrative position retains his or her status as a tenured faculty member. The assignment of such an administrator to a faculty position shall be done in accordance with section II below. Administrators hired after the effective date can acquire the right to become first-year probationary faculty members as provided by Education Code Section 87458 and in accordance with this procedure.

1. An administrator hired after June 30, 1990, and who did not have faculty tenure in this district at the time of hire, may be reassigned to a first-year probationary faculty position provided that he or she meets all of the following:

A. Holds an administrative position that either:

1. Is not part of the classified service. For every administrative job title, the records of the district shall show whether or not it is part of the classified service. The decision to list a position as not part of the classified service shall be made by joint agreement with the academic senate, or

2. Is part of the classified service, but for whom at the time of hire, he or she was certified by the academic senate as possessing qualifications in a specified discipline or disciplines similar in experience and preparation to what would be expected of a newly hired faculty member. To qualify for reassignment under this provision means that the district may, at its discretion and if the reassignment would not cause the layoff of any contract or regular faculty member, offer such a reassignment to the administrator in question.
Administrator Retreat Rights Procedure

B. Has served in this district a total of at least two years as one or more of the following: a faculty member or instructional or student services administrator. This service has been documented as satisfactory.

C. Is being dismissed due to the elimination of the current position as part of an administrative reorganization or as part of a reduction in force among administrators, that is, for reasons other than for cause. But, if another administrative position of similar rank and responsibilities is open within the district for which this administrator has the minimum qualifications, he or she shall be assigned to that position. In no case shall this district reassign an administrator to a faculty position if evidence exists that justifies dismissal for cause.

II. To determine the discipline and college or location to which an administrator shall be assigned, the following shall apply:

A. The administrator can be assigned only to a discipline in which he or she has at least the minimum qualifications as specified by the Education Code and Title 5. The academic senate shall certify to the governing board for which discipline or disciplines the administrator meets the minimum qualifications and shall recommend the discipline to which the administrator should be assigned. The governing board shall rely primarily upon this judgment. The governing board shall also provide the academic senate with an opportunity to present its views to the governing board before the board makes a determination. A written record of the board's decision, including the views of the academic senate, shall be available for review pursuant to Education Code Section 87358.

B. Whenever possible, the administrator shall be assigned to a discipline in which he or she has not only the minimum qualifications but also where all of the following apply:

1. There are sufficient assignments in the discipline or service at one college or location currently held by temporary faculty to make a full-time assignment for an additional faculty member.
2. The administrators has an interest as indicated by a statement of the administrator's own preference for assignment.
3. The administrator has the most academic preparation and experience.
Section 87454:

A tenured employee, when assigned from a faculty position to an administrative position, or assigned any special or other type of work, or given special classification or designation, shall retain his or her status as a tenured faculty member.

Section 87458:

A person employed in an administrative position that is not part of the classified service, who has not previously acquired tenured status as a faculty member in the same district, shall have the right to become a first year probationary faculty member once his or her administrative assignment expires or is terminated if all of the following apply:

(1) The process by which the governing board reaches the determination shall be developed and agreed upon jointly by representatives of the governing board and the academic senate, and approved by the governing board. The agreed upon process shall include reasonable procedures to ensure that the governing board relies primarily upon the advice and judgment of the academic senate to determine that the administrator possesses the minimum qualifications for employment as a faculty member. The process shall further require that the governing board provide the academic senate with an opportunity to present its views to the governing board before the board makes a determination; and that the written record of the decision, including the views of the academic senate, shall be available for review pursuant to Section 87358.

(2) Until a joint agreement is reached pursuant to subdivision (a), the district process in existence on January 1, 1989, shall remain in effect.

(c) The administrator has completed at least two years of satisfactory service, including any time previously served as a faculty member, in the district.

(d) The termination of the administrative assignment is for any reason other than dismissal for cause.
Taft College Distance Learning Approval Form
For Online and Offline Formats Only

(Please submit this form electronically as a Word file to the DE Coordinator/Director)

This course is to be taught: Online _____, Hybrid _____, Offline _____

Answer the following questions for each modality requested:

1. What is the justification for this course to be taught in a distance learning format?
   - Some of the potential responses here could be based on trying to increase enrollment, or trying to meet student demand for the course without impacting scheduling issues.

2. In what ways might this course present unique challenges for this course in specific to the distance education environment, and how will they be overcome?
   - As an example, if your course requires student presentations, how will that be accomplished in the distance education environment?
   - Examples of potential challenges:
     o Presentations
     o Requirements to present in front of live audience o Labs
     o Models
     o Educational materials
     o Accessibility

3. How will this course be developed to promote regular effective instructor/student contact?
   - Be specific. Simply stating “Email and/or LMS Message Posts” is not specific. Detail how the methods that will be used to maintain effective contact will be put into place. (REC Procedure as part of AP 4105) (For example: weekly announcements; reminder emails; Instructor-led Cranium Café study sessions and office hours; participating in class discussion forums; replying to student emails, phone calls, mail, as specified in the syllabus)
3. Describe ways the content of the course will be delivered or presented.
   - For example, instructor-created videos, PDFs, web links, Canvas Content Pages, student collaboration projects, and the course textbook could be used to deliver content.

4. How will you ensure the students can successfully navigate your course?
   - For example, ways to help guide your students through your course might include creating a video with you recording your desktop (screen-casting) as you demonstrate stepping through your class and the modules in your class; or, it might include a Content Page within Canvas that explains how the students will proceed through the class.

5. How will you assess student learning within Canvas?
   - For example, tests and quizzes within Canvas, essays/papers, discussion forum responses, and projects could be different ways to assess student learning.

6. Will this course use a textbook other than what is currently approved for the face-to-face class?
   - If this class is not taught face-to-face, or a different textbook will be used, has the textbook gone through the appropriate approval process?

7. List all types of materials, supplemental online platforms and how accessibility issues will be addressed?
   - Consider AP 5145 in your response. Will PDFs, instructional videos, MyMathLab, Word files, audio files, PowerPoint presentations be used? If so, each resource needs to be accessible.

8. Does this course contain a lab requirement? If so, how will the lab requirement be met?

9. If this course is approved to be offered in a Distance Learning format, will this action push the percentage of Distance Learning courses offered in the program over 50%? If so, this will trigger the need for a Substantive Change to be submitted to ACCJC. If you are not sure about how to respond to this question, you can leave this response blank and have the division chair and/or the DE Coordinator determine whether this change of delivery methods will push the percentage over 50%.

BOARD OF GOVERNORS OF THE CALIFORNIA COMMUNITY COLLEGES PROPOSED REVISIONS TO TITLE 5 REGULATIONS: of
DISTANCE EDUCATION

1. Section 55200 of article 1 of subchapter 3 of chapter 6 of division 6 of title 5 of the California Code of Regulations is amended to read:

§ 55200. Definition and Application.

Distance education means instruction in which the instructor and student are separated by time and/or distance and interact through the assistance of communication technology. All distance education is subject to the general requirements of this chapter as well as the specific requirements of this article. In addition, instruction provided as distance education is subject to the requirements that may be imposed by of the Americans with Disabilities Act (42 U.S.C. § 12100 et seq.) and section 508 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, as amended (29 U.S.C. § 794d).

2. Section 55202 of article 1 of subchapter 3 of chapter 6 of division 6 of title 5 of the California Code of Regulations is amended to read:

§ 55202. Course Quality Standards.

The same standards of course quality shall be applied to any portion of a class conducted through distance education as are applied to traditional classroom courses, in regard to the course quality judgment made pursuant to the requirements of section 55002, and in regard to any local course quality determination or review process. Determinations and judgments about the quality of distance education under the course quality standards shall be made with the full involvement of faculty in accordance with the provisions of subchapter 2 (commencing with section 53200) of chapter 2.

3. Section 55204 of article 1 of subchapter 3 of chapter 6 of division 6 of title 5 of the California Code of Regulations is amended to read:
§ 55204. Instructor Contact.
In addition to the requirements of section 55002 and any locally established requirements applicable to all courses, district governing boards shall ensure that:

(a) Any portion of a course conducted through distance education includes regular effective contact between instructor and students, and among students, either synchronously or asynchronously, through group or individual meetings, orientation and review sessions, supplemental seminar or study sessions, field trips, library workshops, telephone contact, correspondence, voice mail, e-mail, or other activities. Regular effective contact is an academic and professional matter pursuant to sections 53200 et seq.

(b) Any portion of a course provided through distance education is conducted consistent with guidelines issued by the Chancellor pursuant to section 409 of the Procedures and Standing Orders of the Board of Governors.

4. Section 55206 of article 1 of subchapter 3 of chapter 6 of division 6 of title 5 of the California Code of Regulations is amended to read:

§ 55206. Separate Course Approval.
If any portion of the instruction in a new proposed or existing course or course section is designed to be provided through distance education in lieu of face-to-face interaction between instructor and student, an addendum to the official course outline of record shall be required. In addition to addressing how course outcomes will be achieved in a distance education mode, the addendum shall at a minimum specify how the portion of instruction delivered via distance education meets:

(a) Regular and effective contact between instructors and students and among students as referenced in title 5, section 55204(a), and

The addendum to the course shall be separately reviewed and approved according to the district’s adopted course curriculum approval procedures.

Section 55208 of article 1 of subchapter 3 of chapter 6 of division 6 of title 5 of the California Code of Regulations is amended to read:

§ 55208. Faculty Selection and Workload.

(a) Instructors of course sections delivered via distance education technology shall be selected by the same procedures used to determine all instructional assignments. Instructors shall possess the minimum qualifications for the discipline into which the course’s subject matter most appropriately falls, in accordance with article 2 (commencing with section 53410) of subchapter 4 of chapter 4, and with the list of discipline definitions and requirements adopted by the Board of Governors to implement that article, as such list may be amended from time to time.

(b) Instructors of distance education shall be prepared to teach in a distance education delivery method consistent with local district policies and negotiated agreements.

(bc) The number of students assigned to any one course section offered by distance education shall be determined by and be consistent with other district procedures related to faculty assignment. Procedures for determining the number of students assigned to a course section offered in whole or in part by distance education may include a review by the curriculum committee established pursuant to section 55002(a)(1).

(ed) Nothing in this section shall be construed to impinge upon or detract from any negotiations or negotiated agreements between exclusive representatives and district governing boards.

California Virtual Campus - Online Education Initiative
Consortium
Master Agreement for California Community Colleges

This California Virtual Campus - Online Education Initiative Consortium Master Agreement for California Community Colleges (hereafter “Agreement”) is entered into by and between the Foothill-De Anza Community College District (hereafter “FHDA”) representing the California Community Colleges California Virtual Campus - Online Education Initiative (hereafter “CVC-OEI”) and __________________________________________ (hereafter “Participating College” or “College”) on the ________________ day of _________________ (month), _______________ (year).

WHEREAS, The CVC-OEI is a collaborative effort among California Community Colleges (hereafter “CCC”) to significantly increase opportunities for completion of student educational goals in California through access to high quality online courses and a comprehensive and collaborative online education ecosystem. The CVC-OEI is managed by FHDA through funding disbursed by the California Community College Chancellor’s Office (hereafter “CCCCCO”);

WHEREAS, Through this Agreement, the CVC-OEI and Participating College agree to establish a program in the form of the CVC-OEI Consortium (hereafter “Consortium”) as authorized by the CCCCCO and Sections 66770, 66770.5, 66771, 66772, 66773, 66773.5, and 68101 of the California Education Code, the purpose of which is to implement a convenient online methodology to enable student cross-enrollment as authorized by AB 637;

WHEREAS, The Participating College agrees that, in its role as a member of the Consortium, it shall perform all of its duties, responsibilities and obligations as described in Appendices A-D, which are attached hereto and incorporated herein as part of this Agreement; and

WHEREAS, CVC-OEI agrees to provide management services for the Consortium and accordingly to provide College with the support and resources described in Appendices A-D.

NOW, THEREFORE, THE PARTIES HERETO AGREE AS FOLLOWS:

A. PURPOSE
The purpose of this Agreement is to define commitments, obligations, benefits, and responsibilities between the CVC-OEI and Participating College to collectively establish a Consortium of participating colleges supporting the online education ecosystem for the CCC. Furthermore, this Agreement including Appendices A-D, contains the entire agreement between the parties pertaining to the matters described herein, and supersedes any prior agreements (or MOU) covering these matters, verbal or written, in existence before the execution of this Agreement.
B. PROGRAM DESCRIPTION
Participating Colleges will work with the CVC-OEI to support a fully operational California Virtual Campus Exchange (hereafter “CVC Exchange”) in support of the Prime Agreement between the CCCCO and FHDA ("Prime Agreement"). The CVC Exchange aims to provide a seamless pathway for students to register for, and complete, online courses across participating colleges to support accelerated student completion of educational goals.

C. FUNDING
The CVC-OEI is managed by FHDA through funding disbursed by CCCCO as outlined in the Prime Agreement. The CVC-OEI receives ongoing annual funding, awarded in one-year increments, with renewal contingent upon submission of a satisfactory annual progress report, financial reporting, and overall performance as determined by the CCCCO. All of FHDA's and CVC-OEI's obligations stated herein including support services and activities are contingent upon available funding.

D. TERM
This Agreement shall become effective when signed by both parties and shall continue in effect from the date of execution until either party gives written notice of at least 30 days to terminate the Agreement; or until an event causing termination occurs; and/or until this Agreement is superseded.

E. MODIFICATIONS
To successfully accomplish the goals of the CVC Exchange, the Participating College and FHDA/CVC-OEI agree to collaborate in support of program goals and activities as stipulated in Appendices A-D. This Agreement including Appendices may be updated or modified by FHDA as needed to reflect needed programmatic adjustments or changes in availability of resources. Participating College will be provided with at least 60 days notice of such updates or amendments. Participating College's refusal to accept such updates or modifications shall be an event causing termination of this Agreement.

F. DISPUTE RESOLUTION.
Any dispute between the parties regarding their respective rights and obligations hereunder shall be to the extent reasonably possible resolved through compromise and/or non-binding mediation. To the extent reasonable and good faith discussions fail to resolve disputes, the parties agree to binding arbitration of such matters pursuant to California Code of Civil Procedure section 1280-1294.4, with the non-prevailing party responsible for the arbitrator's fee, but in all other respects with each side bearing its own costs and attorneys fees.
G. INSURANCE, INDEMNITY.
Each party will take all necessary steps to maintain customary insurance or authorized self-insurance coverages for its officers, employees and agents working on implementing this Agreement, including, without limitation, coverages for comprehensive general liability and errors and omissions. Failure to maintain such insurance or self-insurance shall be a breach of this Agreement. Notwithstanding any other provision herein, each party agrees to indemnify, hold harmless and defend the other (the "indemnitee") from and against any and all claims, suits, damages and injuries which were caused by the negligence, breach of contract or other culpable misconduct of the officers, employees or agents of the indemnitor arising from its activities hereunder.

The signatures below acknowledge that each party hereto has read and understands and agrees to the terms of this Agreement, in its entirety, including all Appendices, and is authorized to execute this Agreement on behalf of the named education entity.

Appendix A
Consortium Participation Requirements

Participating College commits to the following in order to effectively remain in good standing as a CVC-OEI Consortium Member:

   a. Commit and adhere to Appendix A: Consortium Participation Requirements, Appendix B: Support for Participating College, and Appendix C: Consortium Reciprocity Agreement.

   b. Utilize the Common Course Management System (CCMS), fully funded by the CVC-OEI, as the College’s sole course management system.

   c. Commit to participating in the CVC Exchange as both Home and Teaching College (see Appendix D for definitions). Work with the CVC-OEI to continue to develop, test, and expand the CVC Exchange.

   d. Execute a separate California Community College Online Education Initiative (OEI) Consortium Federal Financial Aid Consortium as provided by CVC-OEI. The current agreement is located at http://ccconlineed.org/financialaidconsortium/.

   e. Provide local information technology support for implementation of technology integrations required to populate the CVC Exchange and to facilitate cross-enrollment. This includes working with CVC-OEI to provide secure access to data or systems necessary for the effective implementation of the CVC Exchange cross-enrollment processes as outlined in California Education Code.

2. Course Offerings

   a. Commit to achieving, within two (2) academic years, an initial target of aligning at least 20% of the College’s existing annual online section inventory to the OEI Course Design Rubric using the CVC-OEI Peer Online Course Review process.

   b. These offerings shall, as pedagogically appropriate, incorporate CVC-OEI technologies and support services (or equivalents) as outlined in Appendix B: Support for Participating College, including:

      1) Course(s) must have been taught by the instructor submitting the course for review for at least one full term in the CCMS.

      2) Course(s) must have the appropriate C-ID, IGETC, CSU GE Breadth designation as specified by the CVC-OEI with the advisement of the Advisory Committee and the Consortium or fill other critical gaps as outlined by the CVC-OEI management team.
3) Include access to Online Student Readiness (with diagnostic), online counseling, and online tutoring services.
4) Offer CVC-OEI subsidized online proctoring or an equivalent service if the course requires proctoring.
5) Participating College will ensure that courses submitted for review utilize technology and materials that comply with the accessibility requirements of Section 508 of the Federal Rehabilitation Act of 1973, as described in the CCC Information and Communication Technology and Instructional Material Accessibility Standard.

c. College agrees, in cooperation with CVC-OEI, to provide training for College faculty in a localized Peer Online Course Review process utilizing the OEI Course Design Rubric or its equivalent.

3. Consortium Activities and Implementation Teams

a. Establish a College Implementation Team comprised of the appropriate administrators, faculty, and staff, including a designated Project Leader who will serve as the representative and provide ongoing communication to the College. The Implementation Team must commit to meeting on a regular basis. CVC-OEI will provide the Participating College with a document suggesting a crosswalk for college functional roles of Implementation Team members.

b. Actively participate in Consortium activities and meetings in accordance with the Consortium Charter.

4. Cessation

a. College agrees that failure to make a good faith effort to prepare and provide the CVC Exchange with courses aligned to the OEI Course Design Rubric shall be an event which may cause termination of this Agreement and loss of benefits outlined in this Agreement and its attached Appendices.

b. Parties agree that upon cessation of participation in the CVC-OEI Consortium, College is no longer eligible to receive Consortium-level, OEI-funded resources, as indicated in Appendix B. Parties agree that College shall continue to be eligible to receive resources otherwise provided to all CCCs that are not members of the CVC-OEI Consortium. CVC-OEI agrees to work with College to develop a reasonable timeframe for removal of funding for CVC-OEI Consortium-level resources. Such a timeframe developed by CVC-OEI shall not extend later than the end of the fiscal year in which the college ceases participation in the CVC-OEI Consortium.
Appendix B
Support for Participating College

Participating College with a signed Agreement on file will receive free and/or subsidized access to designated CVC-OEI student support technologies and services during the timeframe of this Agreement. Appendix B will be updated no later than March 1 of each year, and may include resources such as, but not limited to, online student readiness, online counseling, online tutoring, and authentication tools. Free or subsidized access to technologies and services described in Appendix B is contingent upon College remaining in good standing through continued good faith efforts to fulfill requirements outlined in Appendix A: Consortium Requirements.

Contracts for these services can be found at https://foundationccc.org/CollegeBuys/For-Colleges/Our-Partners/Online-Education-Initiative Parties may mutually agree to substitute or introduce additional resources, tools, or services based on usage, efficacy data, or operational considerations.

Parties agree that the CVC-OEI Management may determine that any particular resource, tool, or service indicated should be removed or replaced with a different solution with similar or expanded functionality.

Upon consultation with CVC-OEI, College may substitute a comparable resource or service upon mutual agreement.

2. Research and Data
In order to support efforts for closing the online achievement gap, the CVC-OEI may establish partnerships with various research organizations with a goal of gathering data to support program efficacy. As such, Consortium colleges may be invited to participate in selected research projects.

Participation may include but is not limited to allowing CVC-OEI affiliated researchers access to campus and/or district data, as needed, encouraging participation in CVC-OEI focus groups, surveys, as well as closed beta testing of select student support technology tools and data analytics projects. As required, CVC-OEI will facilitate agreements required to ensure compliance with data security and privacy requirements.

CVC-OEI agrees to provide Participating College with access to comprehensive reporting and data, as appropriate, to inform effective student success strategies for closing the online achievement gap as well as improve overall online student completion rates.

3. Additional Benefits
Participating College receives the following additional benefits based on active membership in the CVC-OEI Consortium:

a. Support for Peer Online Course Review and course alignment with the OEI Course Design Rubric includes training, instructional design support, and accessibility assistance.

b. Training and resources to support colleges in the development of local Peer Online Course Review activities and programs.

c. Technical assistance provided as applicable, in conjunction with local technology support, for full implementation of technology integrations required to populate the CVC Exchange and to facilitate cross-enrollment.

d. Participation in online and face-to-face meetings of the Consortium, as specified in the Consortium charter, with travel reimbursement as applicable.

e. One complimentary registration per college to the annual Online Teaching Conference.

CVC-OEI Consortium Reciprocity Agreement

CVC Exchange Overview
The CVC Exchange will provide all California Community college students with access to search for online courses and programs via an intuitive course search optimizer and program finder. The program focus includes making cross-enrollment in online course sections available to California Community College students, with support for finding online degree and certificate program pathways, searching for available course sections, automation of cross-enrollment including registering for courses, and accessing online support services.

In keeping with the intent of AB 637 and California Education Code Chapter 9.7 Section 68101, the CVC Exchange will allow Consortium member students (those eligible to utilize online cross-enrollment) the added opportunity to register for online classes and programs offered at a consortium teaching college without having to submit a second CCCApply admission application.

To successfully accomplish the goals of the new CVC Exchange, the Participating College agrees to adhere to the following policies:

1. Online Cross-enrollment Application and Residency Considerations

   a. In order for consortium colleges students to benefit from online cross-enrollment, College will participate in electronically sharing all required student record data - to include but not limited to: student application data from the participating Home College’s Student Information System (SIS), registration data (e.g., prerequisite info, registration date), matriculation data, student transcript data, student final grade, and add/drop data from teaching college.

   b. With regards to residency determination, College will accept the determination of another community college district pursuant to California Education Code Chapter 9.7 Section 68101: “Cross-Enrollment in Online Education between Campuses of the California Community Colleges.”

   c. Within the Consortium, the College where a student successfully completes matriculation and attempts to register for CVC Exchange courses shall be considered the student’s Home College.

2. Online Cross-Enrollment and Course Registration Considerations

   a. A student is qualified to participate in online cross-enrollment pursuant to California Education Code Chapter 9.7 Section 68101: “Cross-Enrollment in Online Education between Campuses of the California Community Colleges.” if he or she is enrolled at a Home College that is part of the Online Education Initiative Consortium.
b. A student shall acknowledge understanding that the CVC Exchange course is being offered by another college ("Teaching College") and agree to CVC Exchange policies/guidelines before the student can register for the online course.

c. In order to utilize online cross-enrollment, a student must be enrolled in at least one (1) class at a participating Home College.

d. A student may obtain access to register for a CVC Exchange course through the student’s Home College registration system or the CVC registration portal at CVC.edu.

e. The Teaching College shall accept the Home College designations of priority registration, which must be consistent with Title 5 Section 58108 registration and enrollment procedures. Therefore students choosing to utilize online cross-enrollment will receive registration dates and/or times based on their priority enrollment status at their Home College.

f. The Home College shall be responsible for verification of matriculation completion (as defined by Title 5 and the Student Success and Support Program) for any student utilizing online cross-enrollment.

g. The Home College shall determine whether or not a student has met any identified prerequisites.

h. A student will not be allowed to register for a CVC Exchange course if he/she has:

1) Registered for another course with the same C-ID, IGETC, CSU GE equivalent articulation or during periods with overlapping start and end dates.

2) Been determined by the Home College to fall into one of the following categories:

   a) International F1 Visa

   b) Address outside of California

   c) Incarcerated

   d) Vacation or Visitor Visas (B Visas)

   e) AB540 with out of state addresses

   f) High school dual enrollment

i. If a seat is available and all other criteria are met, a student registering for a CVC Exchange course shall receive preliminary acknowledgment of successful registration and notification of next steps including fees to be paid and applicable institutional policy and regulations related to grading, enrollment, drop, and withdrawal.
j. From a student’s perspective, the Teaching College is responsible for providing information and responding to inquiries associated with its courses once the student is registered in that class. All other information and inquiries arising from participation in online cross-enrollment are the responsibility of the Home College.

k. For students registering for CVC Exchange courses through online cross-enrollment, the Teaching College shall waive any non-essential campus-specific fees or provide the opportunity for students to opt out of local non-tuition related fees of the Teaching College.

1) The Add/Drop/Withdrawal deadline for a CVC Exchange course is determined by the Teaching College offering the course.

2) Attempted and completed CVC Exchange courses registered for via online cross-enrollment will appear as transferred and articulated courses in the student’s academic history at the Home College.

3) Requirements for certificates and degrees to be awarded shall be determined by the Home College.

4) Completed and attempted CVC Exchange course(s) utilizing online cross-enrollment will be reflected on the student transcript at the Teaching College within a timeframe deemed reasonable by the participating Teaching College. The Home College’s student academic history shall also be updated within a timeframe deemed reasonable by the participating Home College.

3. Accessibility and Disabled Student Programs and Services Considerations

a. The Teaching College and Home College Disabled Student Programs and Services (“DSPS”) offices will collaborate to ensure that students utilizing online cross-enrollment will receive appropriate DSPS services.

b. The Teaching College will accept the Home College’s classification of DSPS pursuant to Title 5, Section 56006 if the student chooses to provide informed consent which will allow a Teaching College access to the student’s Home College’s DSPS classification determination.

c. The Teaching College shall be responsible for notifying the course instructor regarding the necessary accommodations.

d. The Home College will provide any qualified student with on-campus student support services, and accommodations as described in the required Academic Accommodations Plan (AAP) identified in Title 5 Section 56022.
e. The Teaching College will provide qualified in-class academic accommodation for CVC Exchange courses being taught by the Teaching College as described in the Academic Accommodations Plan (AAP).

4. Financial Aid Considerations

   a. All Consortium colleges will participate in a Federal Financial Aid Consortium Agreement. Under such agreement, the Home College shall be responsible for including CVC Exchange course units in its determination of financial aid, and for any associated processing and financial aid distributions. The Consortium member Home College reserves the right to exclude CVC Exchange course units from the determination of Financial Aid should there be a conflict with Title IV Federal requirements.

   b. To be considered eligible, students requesting the combining of units under the Federal Financial Aid Consortium Agreement must be enrolled in at least six (6) semester units or the equivalent quarter units at the participating Home College.

   c. The Teaching College shall honor the Home College’s California Promise Grant (formerly Board of Governors Fee Waiver) eligibility determination. If loss of the California Promise Grant waiver occurs at the Home College or within the Home College's District, a separate determination of eligibility for the California Promise Grant will be made by the Teaching College.

   d. Teaching College agrees to a waiver or opt-out option of duplicate non-tuition fees such as health fee and other campus-based fees as fits local policy. With regards to non-tuition fees, the teaching college agrees to abide by the rules of the CVC Exchange in accordance with Education Code.

   e. Teaching College will share post-registration data regarding census attendance, number of enrolled units, withdrawals, drops, and grades to Home College in order to ensure that financial aid requirements are up to date.

   f. The Consortium Home College is responsible for reflecting students’ CVC Exchange progress in the Satisfactory Academic Progress report (SAP).

5. Reconciliation

   a. The CVC-OEI shall provide assistance to the Participating College to determine how and in what timeframe its local data is synchronized with the CVC Exchange and/or other associated databases.
b. Collection of Teaching College CVC Exchange course enrollment fees and issuing any refunds is the responsibility of the Teaching College.

c. Home College is responsible for any applicable student financial aid processing for the combined enrolled units.

d. Home College shall be responsible for determining financial aid eligibility.

e. Home College shall receive credit for degree completion and/or transfer attainment.

f. Teaching College shall receive apportionment for CVC Exchange course enrollment.

g. Third party (including student) claims shall be the responsibility of the District which employs the instructor, administrator, or other employee alleged to have caused the injury or loss.

h. The initial implementation of the CVC Exchange may require some manual processes to perform reconciliations between colleges.
Appendix D
Glossary of Terms

California Virtual Campus - Online Education Initiative (CVC-OEI):
The CCC initiative, funded by the CCC Chancellor’s Office, that provides support to college online teaching and learning programs and coordinates online infrastructure, resources, and services available to the entire CCC system. Resources include the CCMS and other components such as student resources, faculty resources, other technology resources, and research and policy documentation.

CCMS (or Common Course Management System):
The CCMS is the common learning management platform provided by the CVC-OEI. At this time the CCMS is Canvas.

CVC Exchange (or Course Exchange):
The component of the CVC-OEI that facilitates students registering for online courses. This component of the CVC-OEI aims to reduce and/or eliminate barriers and duplication in the application and matriculation processes and automates associated business processes. The CVC Exchange is intended to facilitate the timely completion of educational goals that students establish at their Home Colleges by enabling students to enroll in courses critical to completing their educational goals, that are not readily available at their Home College.

CVC-OEI Consortium:
A consortium of California Community Colleges with a mission to expand the delivery of courses through technology pursuant to Schedule 26 and Provision 42 of Item 6870-101-0001 of Section 2.00 of the Budget Act of 2013 (Chapter 20 of the Statutes of 2013).

Home College:
The campus of the California Community Colleges at which a student is matriculated. Courses offered by a Teaching College are available to students from a Home College using cross-enrollment through the CVC Exchange.

Implementation Team:
The committee/workgroup at a Consortium College that will work together to deploy the components of the CVC-OEI program according to the Agreement and operational considerations.

Project Leader:
A designee or designees of the Participating College who chairs the College Implementation Team and serves as primary liaison between with the CVC-OEI. The Project Leader assists the CVC-OEI in communicating and coordinating the project efforts at the College.
Rubric-aligned Courses:
Online courses that have been submitted by Participating College faculty for peer review, instructional design and accessibility support. The course review assesses alignment with the OEI Course Design Rubric for design and accessibility. The CVC-OEI Chief Professional Development Officer oversees the review process and manages the standards impacting when courses are sufficiently aligned and can be badged accordingly.

Teaching College:
The campus of the California Community Colleges to which a student seeks access. Students from a Home College may use online cross-enrollment through the CVC Exchange to gain access to course(s) at a Teaching College.
ASSIGNING COURSES TO DISCIPLINES

Rebecca Eikey, ASCCC Area C Representative
Michelle Grimes-Hillman, Long Beach City College
Carrie Roberson, ASCCC North Representative

2018 Curriculum Institute
Riverside Convention Center
Today, we will discuss...

- Minimum Qualifications (MQs)
- The Disciplines List
- Assigning Courses to Disciplines
What is a Discipline?

• A “discipline” is defined as a grouping of courses that share common academic or vocational preparation, which are typically defined by a degree or degrees (MFA, MA, BA, MS, etc), or specific professional preparation.

• Discipline is from the perspective of faculty preparation.

• Faculty must meet the MQs for the discipline of the faculty member’s assignment.

• Not the same as local departments or subject areas.
  • Example:
    • Local Department or Subject Name: Child and Family Studies
    • Official Discipline: Early Childhood Education

• Not the same as your local designator, a TOP code, or a FSA!
The Disciplines List

• Specifies the minimum qualifications for each discipline

• Revisions to Discipline List is done annually
  • Through local senate or through professional organization
  • Must have two separate senate districts approve the proposal
  • Must provide evidence to support rationale for change
  • Minimum of two statewide hearings

• Board of Governors considers the recommendations of the Academic Senate and formally acts on them
Organization of the Disciplines List

• Disciplines requiring a Master’s Degree
• Disciplines where a Master’s degree is not normally expected but a Bachelor’s or Associate degree is expected
• Disciplines in which a Master’s, Bachelor’s or Associate Degree is not generally expected or available in that specific discipline
• Disciplines for non-credit instruction
• Other – to include Administrators, Learning Center Coordinators, Health Services Professionals, Apprenticeship Instructors, DSP&S Counselors, Work Experience Coordinators, Faculty Interns, EOPS
DISCIPLINES INDEX

This is a comprehensive list of all of the disciplines included in the handbook displayed in alphabetical discipline order. The list identifies the degree and professional experience requirement along with the associated statutory law in California Education Code (CEC) and/or regulation in California Code of Regulations (CCR), title 5 section for each discipline. Reference the Statutory Laws & Regulations section of this handbook for a definition of Occupational and Professional Experience.

Minimum Qualifications

• Degrees and credits generally must be from accredited institutions (§53406).

• An occupational license or certificate is required in certain instances (§53417).

• A district may hire a person who possesses qualifications different from, but equivalent to, those listed on the disciplines list, according to criteria and procedures agreed upon by the governing board and the academic senate (§53430).
Why Do We Care About Faculty Qualifications?

- Minimum Qualifications are one mechanism that:
  - Ensures faculty preparation in the content area
  - Addresses Accreditation Standards
  - Is a 10+1 issue
    - Equivalency - Ed. Code §87359(b),
    - Minimum Qualifications - Ed. Code §87360(b)
Local Minimum Qualifications

• A district may establish additional qualifications which are more rigorous than the state-established MQs.
• However, local MQs cannot be less rigorous than the state-established MQs.
Discipline
Defines required academic preparation and professional experience for faculty

Assignment of Course to Discipline
Defines the MQs needed to teach the course.

Courses
What the faculty teach...curriculum!
Assigning Courses to Disciplines

• Determine the minimum qualifications necessary to teach a course.
• Local senates maintain responsibility for placing courses in disciplines (§53200(c)(1)).
• All credit & noncredit courses must be placed within a discipline or disciplines.
• Not required for community service courses
Options for Assigning Courses

1. Course assigned to a single discipline.
   • Example: ENGL 101 assigned to English. The minimum qualifications for English provides adequate preparation to teach the course content.

2. Course assigned to more than one discipline with an “or”
   • Example: ARTS 101 assigned to Art or Graphic Design. The minimum qualifications for either discipline provide adequate preparation to teach the course content.

3. Course assigned to more than one discipline with an “and”
   • HUMA 120 assigned to Humanities and Ethnic Studies. The minimum qualifications for both disciplines together provide adequate preparation to teach the course content.
Multiple Disciplines

• Do not need to have more than one course outline of record (COR) or be listed in the catalog under multiple subject codes. For Example:
  • ARTS 101 is assigned to Art OR Graphic Design on the COR. The college only maintains one COR for ARTS 101. The course is listed in the catalog ONLY as ARTS 101. However faculty who meet MQ for Art or Graphic Design can teach course.

• May be “double-coded”, i.e. recorded on two or more CORs and listed in the catalog under each subject code. For example:
  • Social Psychology is recorded on two separate CORs, one as PSYC 120, one as SOCI 120. It is listed in the catalog under both subject codes. Double-coded courses should have identical CORs.
Impact on Teaching

Single Discipline:

Faculty who meet minimum qualifications or the locally-determined equivalent for that discipline are eligible to teach the courses within that particular discipline.

More than one discipline with an “or”:

Faculty who meet minimum qualifications or the locally-determined equivalent in any of the listed disciplines are eligible to teach the course.

More than one discipline with an “and”:

Faculty who meet minimum qualifications or the locally-determined equivalent for ALL of the listed disciplines are eligible to teach the course.
Interdisciplinary Studies

• The Disciplines List includes the discipline of Interdisciplinary Studies.
• The minimum qualifications for Interdisciplinary Studies are:
  • Master’s in the interdisciplinary area OR master’s in one of the disciplines included in the interdisciplinary area and upper division or graduate coursework in at least one other constituent discipline.
• Any time interdisciplinary studies is used, the disciplines for a particular course MUST be specified.
Local Disciplines Assignment

• A district may locally assign any discipline on the state list for local use, but they do not have to use any particular discipline.
• For instance, if a district has not locally adopted the discipline of Art History, it could assign all of its Art History courses to the discipline of Art.
• In this case, the MQs for Art History classes in that district would be those defined for the Art discipline, not the Art History discipline (unless/until the district chose to change this).
Single Course Equivalency

• Ed Code and Title 5 refer to qualifications in terms of Disciplines not courses or subject areas within a Discipline (Ed Code §87357; Title 5 §53410 and §53430)

• Legal Opinion L 03-28, Chancellor’s Office Legal Division
  • Faculty are hired to teach within disciplines, not a course
  • Therefore faculty are qualified to teach all courses assigned to that discipline

• Resolution 19.03 (S18): Oppose Efforts to Permit Single-Course Equivalency Disciplines vs. Departments

• Departments are locally defined organizational structures.
• Instructional faculty teach courses assigned to disciplines, not departments.
  • Faculty must meet the MQs of the disciplines to which courses are assigned.
• Example: The LACC Chemistry and Earth Sciences Department offers courses in Chemistry, Geology, Oceanography, and Geography. Who teaches which course?

Conflicts When Assigning Courses

• Imagine that the faculty in your physics department want to create a new course on the Philosophy of Science and would like this to be a physics course.

• The philosophy faculty object to the placement of the course in physics and believe that the course should be part of philosophy.

• How does your local process deal with conflicts like this?
Which Discipline(s) Would You Assign?

Multimedia Applications for the Web

Introduction to the use of multimedia components, images, typography, motion and audio, for designing websites. Software may include Photoshop, Dreamweaver, SoundEdit 16 and Flash. Projects include conceptualizing, storyboarding, and designing Web page layout. Application of design elements to Web page creation.
Which Discipline(s) Would You Assign?

Introduction to Peace and Conflict Studies

Historical, social and economic development of the world order along with a wide range approach integral to the examination of global studies, peace and conflict resolution. The study of peace and conflict areas to include the war system, war prevention, nonviolence, human rights, social justice, environmental sustainability and the role of the United Nations and other international governing bodies.
Which Discipline(s) Would You Assign?

Introduction to Geographic Information System

This course introduces basic scientific principles of Geographic Information Systems (GIS) as they relate to working with data that have important spatial orientation and organization. Geometric and geographic concepts and theories are used to develop scientific methods for proper communication of the data and the solution of problems that have spatial relationships. Course covers basic concepts in mapping and orientation, the development of map scales and comparison of different coordinate systems and data error analysis.
Multi-College Districts

• While some multi-college districts have common courses, others do not.
• Since your district has one set of minimum qualifications, similar courses should be placed in the same discipline, even if they are called different things.
• Your local process may be different than those in single college districts
Summary

- All Courses must be assigned to a discipline listed in the Discipline’s List and the assignment of courses is under the academic senate’s/curriculum committee’s authority.
- The process for assigning courses is locally determined and may differ from college to college.
- Different colleges may choose to use different disciplines for similar courses!
- Create a clear local process that outlines who is involved and who makes the ultimate decision.

TAFT COLLEGE
29 Cougar Court
Taft, CA 93268

Dear Mr. Balason,

Congratulations! Your application for a CAPP Guided Pathways Alignment Project (GPAP) has been selected for funding. This grant of $50,000 from March 1, 2019 to June 30, 2019 will fund your colleges’ efforts to establish a seamless transition from high school to postsecondary education by aligning curricula, pathways, processes, structures, and student-centered activities. The cohort of GPAP grantees represents the diversity within the Central Valley, providing an opportunity for us to truly make a difference for the students in the area.

The readers who read your grant had the following commendations:

1) Initiation of this partnership between Taft Community College and Taft Union High School to improve student academic readiness for postsecondary education and college success.
2) Specific measurable goals identified: Increase by 60% the number of Taft HS students fully prepared for English and Math transfer courses by 2022; increase by 20% the number of Taft UHS students receiving associate degree or certificate; reduce equity gap between Hispanic and white students to less than 10% by 2022.

They also provided the following considerations for your team:

1) Unclear if baseline data are available to document increases identified as measurable goals.
2) A one-day summit is insufficient time for high school and college instructors to review math and English course sequences, discuss student success and support courses, and review course content. A one-day summit for counselors is insufficient time to map degrees and certificates to high school pathways.

A cohort convening has been scheduled for June 18 and 19, 2019 in Long Beach, CA. We are asking that each grantee bring a leadership team that includes essential personnel from both the college and the high schools in your partnership. CAPP will cover all travel expenses for this meeting registration information will be forthcoming in March.
Your official acceptance of the grant award includes the attached budget form letting us know how you will allocate the $50,000 and the completed personnel charts (You may submit the same budget that was submitted with the initial proposal or you can make changes at this time). Please return them no later than February 28, 2019. Please note your new contract will begin as soon as 80% of your current funds are expended.

If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact Zee Cline by phone or email at zcline@calstate.edu or 562-951-4778.

Sincerely,

Zee Cline

Introduction

The hiring of faculty is at the heart of developing and maintaining programs, as well as the success and achievement of students, in all educational systems, and the California Community College System is no exception. While hiring practices may vary in terms of specifics in the 72 community college districts in California, basic principles and tenets of faculty hiring are consistent across the state. In recent years, a focus on diversifying the faculty that are hired at community colleges has increased in intensity, and both the Academic Senate for California Community Colleges (ASCCC) and the California Community Colleges Chancellor’s Office (CCCCO) have responded in a range of ways. This paper, in response to Academic Senate Resolution 3.01 (S17), is one of the various avenues through which the ASCCC has responded to the interest in diversifying community college faculty.

Academic Senate Resolution 3.01 S17 reads as follows:

Whereas, The most recent Academic Senate for California Community Colleges (ASCCC) paper on faculty hiring, A Re-examination of Faculty Hiring Processes and Procedures, was adopted in Fall 2000, and it is good practice to regularly review and reevaluate professional standards regarding the hiring processes and procedures for all faculty;

Whereas, Awareness of the importance of developing faculty hiring processes to increase the diversity of candidates applying and being interviewed for full-time faculty positions has become more significant throughout the system, including the drafting and recent release by the Chancellor’s Office of the Equal Employment Opportunity (EEO) and Diversity Best Practices Handbook, which provides an explanation of the recently-adopted, multiple methods allocation model for EEO funding and model practices for addressing the nine multiple methods described in the allocation model; and

Whereas, The report from the Board of Governors’ Task Force on Workforce, Job Creation, and a Strong Economy included recommendations to expand the pool of potential career and technical education (CTE) faculty with industry experience, and subsequent efforts by the ASCCC and the Chancellor’s Office CTE Minimum Qualifications Task Force have been made to assist colleges to be more flexible when hiring CTE faculty while maintaining high academic and professional standards;

Resolved, That the Academic Senate for California Community Colleges update the paper A Re-examination of Faculty Hiring Processes and Procedures and bring it to the Spring 2018 Plenary Session for discussion and possible adoption.

In addition to serving as a revision of the Fall 2000 paper, this new paper also includes significantly more information about the statewide efforts of both the ASCCC and the CCCCO on hiring more diverse faculty, effective practices for expanding the diversity of hiring pools, and sample language from colleges used in hiring practices and procedures.

1 http://asccc.org/papers/re-examination-faculty-hiring-processes-and-procedures
As is clearly spelled out in the Fall 2000 paper,

The California Education Code is unequivocal in its assignment of authority to faculty in the realm of hiring. Section 87360 (b) reads: “hiring criteria, policies, and procedures for new faculty members shall be developed and agreed upon jointly by representatives of the governing board, and the academic senate, and approved by the governing board.” Two things are significant here: First, this mandate appears in Education Code, rather than in Title 5 Regulations, and whereas both Education Code and Title 5 Regulations have the force of law, this mandate is clearly the express intent of the Legislature. Second, there is no qualification of the mandate, no specification of circumstances wherein it would be permissible for boards to circumvent the requirement to reach joint agreement with the academic senates. These two points combine to make the authority of faculty in hiring even stronger than in the 10+1 academic and professional areas specified in Title 5 §53200. That faculty have the discipline expertise and the motivation to set the highest possible standards in selecting those who will be their colleagues for the next twenty to thirty years is simply inarguable.

Like the Fall 2000 paper, which was not intended as a substitute for previous ASCCC papers on hiring, this paper is intended as an update with more information about concerns that have become increasingly prevalent, including the role of faculty in the hiring of part-time faculty, interest in the diversification of faculty in the California Community College System, and the need for effective practices that can be used to expand the pools for both full – and part-time hiring in all disciplines across the state.

In addition, this paper should be used in conjunction with the CCCO’s Equal Employment Opportunity and Diversity Best Practices Handbook (2016)³, a document created by the CCCO’s EEO and Diversity Advisory Committee to assist colleges in understanding and implementing the conditions around diversification of the workforce required to receive EEO funding.

What Has Changed Since the Last Paper

As one might expect, dramatic changes around hiring have occurred in the 18 years since the adoption of the last ASCCC paper on hiring paper in 2000. Some of these changes are technological, such as the submission of applications through an online portal or the electronic transmission of transcripts rather than paper copies. Others are more philosophical, including the interest in diversifying departments, the expansion of hiring pools to include non-traditional candidates, and even the pedagogical expectations sometimes listed in preferred qualifications. For example, in 2000, colleges usually did not include a preferred qualification of teaching online; today, that attribute is far more likely to be listed.

Changes in campus demographics around diversity have also occurred, both in terms of college personnel and in terms of students. Student populations have seen increased diversity in terms of gender, ethnicity, race, veteran status, and other measures. While faculty hiring has not always matched these increases, evidence shows that the most recent efforts to diversify faculty have yielded more encouraging results. The examination of faculty diversity undertaken by the Chancellor’s Office EEO and Diversity Advisory Committee has dispelled one long-time myth: that the ranks of the part-time faculty across the state are more diverse than those of the full-time faculty. Instead, faculty diversity remains fairly consistent regardless of employment status. For these reasons, effective practices in the diversification of hiring are important regarding both full – and part-time faculty.

The resolution calling for an update of the 2000 paper included a whereas regarding recommendations from the Board of Governors’ Taskforce on Workforce, Job Creation, and a Strong Economy. These recommendations were directed toward the expansion of the pool of qualified applicants for career technical education (CTE) positions while maintaining high academic and professional standards. Many of the effective practices and strategies designed to diversify hiring pools are applicable across disciplines, including CTE hires. Among these strategies are ways in which colleges can be more flexible in terms of equivalencies; however, because the focus of this paper is around hiring, equivalency is only one of the elements discussed. Readers are encouraged to consult the 2016 ASCCC paper Equivalence to the Minimum Qualifications for further information on the topic of equivalency.

Change has not occurred solely at the colleges. Significant work has been accomplished over the last three years by the Chancellor’s Office EEO and Diversity Advisory Committee, which in 2016 created the Equal Employment Opportunity and Diversity Best Practices Handbook. While this handbook covers topics other than hiring, hiring practices are at the heart of the document, which spells out the requirements that colleges and districts need to meet in their processes and procedures in order to secure EEO funds.

This paper is divided into multiple sections that are designed to address each aspect of hiring, from the formation of the committee through the process itself, as well as a section on mentoring of new faculty. Appendices offer effective practices from different colleges and information from the Chancellor’s Office regarding efforts to diversify faculty in the recent past.

Summary of Changes to the EEO Fund Allocation Model and Impact on Hiring Practices

In 2015, the CCCCO, acting on the recommendation of the EEO and Diversity Advisory Committee, modified the Equal Employment Opportunity Fund Allocation Model. While historically EEO funds were allocated based on enrollment, these funds are now allocated to districts that meet “multiple methods of measuring success in promoting equal employment opportunity” as per Title 5 §53030(b)(2).

The Equal Employment Opportunity and Diversity Best Practices Handbook was created to assist colleges in meeting these multiple measures. Each local district’s chief human resources officer, chief executive officer, and board of trustees must annually certify compliance with the multiple measures in order for the district to receive EEO funds. The handbook spells out the current—as of 2017-18—nine possible measures and provide examples for each. These nine measures are as follows:

4  https://www.asccc.org/papers/equivalence-minimum-qualifications-1
MANDATORY FOR ALL COLLEGES

1. The district must convene an Equal Employment Opportunity Committee and demonstrate that the committee met through minutes or other records. That committee, in accordance with local processes, must create and submit an Equal Employment Opportunity Plan to the Chancellor's Office as well as expenditure and performance reports for the prior year. This measure—the only one of the nine that is mandatory for all districts—has seen an increase in compliance from 79% of districts submitting these materials in 2015 to 100% of districts submitting them in 2017.

IN PRE-HIRING PROCESSES

2. The district must demonstrate that it has adopted board policies and resolutions that evidence a commitment to diversifying hiring processes and procedures. The Chancellor's Office has been clear that if a board does not use resolutions in its normal proceedings, adopted board policies will suffice.

3. The district must provide incentives for hard to hire disciplines or areas. These incentives are not limited to finances; for example, the district can demonstrate fulfilling this measure by allowing for Skype interviews if the college is difficult to reach or by limiting preferred qualifications to increase the overall size of the pool.

4. The district provides focused outreach and publications that demonstrate a commitment to diversifying hiring. This measure could include running advertisements and job announcements in a wide variety of publications to reach diverse populations, attending job fairs that are out of the college’s area, or other demonstrable examples of diversifying outreach efforts.

IN HIRING PROCESSES

5. The district has established processes and procedures for addressing diversity throughout all steps and levels of the hiring processes. This measure includes such matters as the creation of the screening committee, the steps for job announcements, and interview processes, among others.

6. The district has provided consistent and ongoing training for all members of all hiring committees.

IN POST-HIRING PROCESSES

7. The district provides professional development focused on diversity.

8. The district ensures that diversity is incorporated into the employee evaluation and tenure processes.

9. The district actively pursues the creation of “grow your own” programs seeking to hire students who attended California Community Colleges.
Beginning in 2016-17, districts were expected to demonstrate that they met five of the above multiple measures, in addition to the mandatory measure, in order to receive EEO funding. In 2016, 77% of districts were able to demonstrate compliance by meeting at least five of the measures; in 2017, that number rose to 94%. The minimum standard for funding increased to meeting six of the eight measures in 2018-2019. Colleges may likely expect that the number of multiple measures expected to be met, as well as the measures themselves, will increase in coming years.

Hiring Processes and Prioritizations

The decision to hire faculty for contract positions, including tenure-track, should be determined cooperatively through a well-defined process that involves college administration including human resources, the local academic senate, and subject-area faculty. This process should include a thoughtful review of the capacity and needs of the college or district and an assessment of subject area strengths and weaknesses, as well as any need for special skills or foci within a discipline.

In all cases, the academic senate must be centrally involved in the determination of new faculty positions. According to California Education Code §87360 (b), “hiring criteria, policies, and procedures for new faculty members shall be developed and agreed upon jointly by representatives of the governing board, and the academic senate, and approved by the governing board.” In addition, Education Code §87360(a) states that districts are required to develop hiring criteria that include “a sensitivity to and understanding of the diverse academic, socioeconomic, cultural, disability, and ethnic backgrounds of community college students.” Local hiring processes should result in jointly agreed-upon recommendations for hiring criteria, policies, and procedures for faculty; in addition, any changes to these criteria, policies, and procedures must also be jointly agreed upon.

To this end, the academic senate should work with the governing board or its designees to develop clearly delineated procedures for analyzing requests and for ranking positions for which new faculty will be hired. Although colleges and districts may utilize a range of local processes for the determination and prioritization of faculty positions, colleges are best served by clear processes that connect requests for the hiring of faculty to local planning and budgeting policies and procedures in order to ensure that decisions are made on the basis of objective criteria, are applied fairly, and are focused on student needs.

While actual policies vary considerably around the state, the initial determination of the need to hire within a discipline should whenever possible rely on, and begin with, consultation with discipline faculty. Discipline faculty possess the expertise to evaluate the needs and requirements of the subject area. In collaboration with administration, such as the appropriate academic dean, a subject-area review by discipline faculty should include quantitative and qualitative data and, where possible, should make reference to the college’s program review process, program-level outcome assessments, and other data relevant to the program or department. For career technical education programs, additional information regarding employment data and other information from regional consortia, advisory committees, or other outside entities may also be relevant.

5 See the Irvine Valley College vs. South Orange Community College District decision, June 2005 http://caselaw.findlaw.com/ca-court-of-appeal/1068365.html
Quantitative factors are typically provided to faculty and administration by a college’s office of research and planning. Attention should be given to any identified data trends to include the current term and at least the two prior academic years where possible. Quantitative factors to consider may include the following:

- Current full-time equivalent faculty (FTEF) within the discipline.
- The percentage of FTEF who are full-time faculty.
- The percentage of FTEF who are part-time faculty or full-time faculty teaching overload sections.
- The total number of sections offered in each discipline.
- The total number of full-time equivalent students.
- The percentage of instructional hours delivered by full-time faculty versus part-time faculty.
- The average percentage fill rate of course sections.
- Total weekly student contact hours.

Additional quantitative factors to consider include overall ratio of full-time to part-time faculty at the college. Although Education Code §87482.6 specifies a legislative goal of 75% of instructional hours to be taught by full-time faculty, many community colleges do not meet this goal. However, colleges should not be trending away from the 75% goal, nor should the percentage for a college in a multi-college district differ significantly from other colleges within that same district.

Colleges will also wish to consider their district-wide Faculty Obligation Number, or FON. The FON is set by the Chancellor’s Office per Title 5 §§51025, which requires college districts to increase the number of full-time faculty over the prior year in proportion to the amount of growth in funded credit full-time equivalent students. Local academic senates should remain aware of the district FON, as districts can suffer significant financial penalties for failure to meet this requirement. The FON is set for the district, rather than for individual colleges, so in multi-college districts a disparity may exist between colleges despite the district still meeting its FON.

Qualitative factors should also be considered in establishing faculty hiring priorities. The identification of qualitative factors should involve consultation with discipline faculty and should be seen as a method to connect the hiring prioritization process to a college’s and district’s integrated planning processes, including program review. Qualitative factors to consider may include the following:

- The proposed job description.
- How the position would serve the needs of the discipline for which it is requested.
- Potential teaching load.
- The availability of qualified part-time faculty in the discipline.
• Representation of the staff with regard to gender, underrepresented group status, and other diversity metrics.

• Subjects and areas of the greatest strengths of the current staff and areas where additional expertise is required.

• Specific needs related to departments staffed by a single full-time faculty member or only part-time faculty members.

• Any legal mandates for a program, including state or federal mandates or requirements by external accreditation bodies (e.g. allied health programs).

• New programs that may require discipline faculty expertise.

In addition, colleges with a baccalaureate degree program will need to take into consideration the requirements for faculty in that area.

A college may also want to consider an analysis of projected needs within a specific discipline, where relevant. As such, the hiring prioritization process may allow for additional quantitative or qualitative factors that demonstrate these anticipated needs. Some possibilities to consider are an analysis of projected enrollment trends within the discipline based on employment trends or trends in transfer-level courses or developmental needs, additional requirements for student support, changing technology and the need to support the development of new skills, diversity needs for the department as well as the college or district, additional needs revealed by the district’s strategic planning processes such as program review, forthcoming categorical funding requirements, and the district’s educational master plan.

In developing or reviewing its hiring prioritization process, a local academic senate should consider creating a printed timeline for the process that includes submission deadlines, review by the academic senate, and submission to the president and board of trustees. Other possible aspects of such a timeline may involve the following:

• A request from the prioritizing body for hiring prioritization forms, soliciting the same information from all petitioning subject-areas and including clear connections to program review, outcomes assessment, and integrated planning and resource allocation procedures.

• Open discussion between the academic senate and administration regarding the merits of each petition.

• An agreed-upon procedure for forwarding recommendations to the college president or governing board.

• An agreed-upon procedure should the college choose to deviate from or alter the recommended priorities.

In this way, the hiring prioritization process is both predictable and transparent, while still maintaining flexibility on behalf of the district.
In addition, while the majority of current and future faculty staffing needs may be anticipated, some program needs may be unknown at the time of the hiring prioritization process and may therefore necessitate critical—sometimes also called emergency—hires. Unknown factors may include late or unanticipated retirements and resignations, vacancies of probationary faculty positions, unforeseen loss of adjunct faculty to other full-time positions, or unfilled positions needed to implement new or existing programs such as time-sensitive, grant-funded programs. Critical hires may also be a response to an immediate need for more course sections or expanded academic or student services due to program accreditation requirements, insufficient discipline adjunct pools, or other similar factors.

In all instances where critical hires are to be considered by a college, a corresponding procedure for the determination of eligible positions further contributes to the transparency of the overall hiring prioritization process. Therefore, colleges or districts are well-served to develop a separate and clear procedure for the determination and approval of critical hires, including a timeline, criteria for the request, validation of the necessity of such a hire, and similar matters. More on critical hiring processes can be found in the “Other Hiring” section of this paper.

At its core, any procedure for the determination of hiring priorities should involve the academic senate in consultation with subject-area or discipline faculty, college administration, and the board of trustees. The process should be as objective and data-informed as possible, allowing for the inclusion of quantitative and qualitative factors. The procedures should be timely and predictable, as clearly delineated, repeatable procedures are the best method to ensure the integrity and transparency of the hiring prioritization process for all involved parties.

The Formation of the Hiring Committee

District policies typically specify the composition of a hiring committee; however, academic senates should review these policies periodically to assure that they are providing the best opportunity to hire faculty experts that meet the needs of California’s diverse student population. In some districts, the collective bargaining unit also plays a role in the hiring process. In such cases, the collective bargaining unit must work with the academic senate to facilitate formation of an appropriate hiring committee.

Hiring committees should contain diverse membership to provide a variety of perspectives in selecting candidates, as per Title 5, §53024.

The composition and training of a hiring committee are very important, as the committee will make an impression on the interviewee that may be a factor in the decision of a candidate who receives multiple offers of employment. No committee should ever sacrifice discipline expertise for the sake of a more diverse committee makeup; however, if the discipline expertise does not supply significant diversity for the committee, then the college may wish to supplement the discipline faculty with additional faculty representatives who can provide greater diversity and differing perspectives.
The Role of Faculty on Faculty Hiring Committees

Faculty on hiring committees should be appointed or confirmed, according to local process, by the academic senate. Title 5 §53202 (f) states that “appointment of faculty members to serve on college or district committees, task forces, or other groups dealing with academic and professional matters, shall be made, after consultation with the chief executive officer or his or her designee, by the academic senate.” Local senates may choose to delegate the nominating process for these appointments to the disciplines involved or in some other manner; whatever the process, academic senate confirmations or appointments should be made in consultation with faculty from the discipline or subject areas, acknowledging the key role of department members in hiring into their own discipline and avoiding unnecessary tension between the roles of the department and the academic senate. The senate’s involvement provides assurance that procedures are being followed and thus affords a level of legitimacy that might otherwise be absent. In addition, the exercise of the academic senate’s role provides an opportunity for any concerns regarding the committee’s composition to surface and be resolved at the earliest stage of the hiring process.

As discipline experts, faculty play a key role in the hiring process. Depending on local practice, discipline faculty may be involved in writing the job description or in determining additional desirable or preferred qualifications and applicant screening criteria. Some districts may request faculty input regarding where to advertise a position or other matters involving recruitment efforts prior to the position closing. Faculty may also be involved in other aspects of the process prior to the actual interviews, including writing interview questions, determining possible scenarios for a teaching demonstration, suggesting additional measures within the interview process such as a hands-on demonstration for some programs, and other areas. Having a diverse committee composition ensures that many different perspectives are considered throughout these various aspects of the process so that the candidates that can best serve the diverse needs of students are more likely to be selected.

The Role of Administrators in Hiring Faculty

A number of administrators may play key roles in the hiring process, although the precise nature of administrative involvement will vary from district to district.

The area administrator, often a dean, may be the chair of the committee or may simply be a member. The position of the area administrator on the committee, including whether or not the administrator is a voting member, will be a matter of local policy, jointly agreed upon by the governing board and the academic senate and spelled out in district processes. In most district processes, the area administrator's office will supply the committee with logistical support. Ideally, the area administrator, by virtue of service on a multiplicity of hiring committees, should have developed considerable expertise in all areas of the hiring process and should be a valuable resource to the committee. If the area administrator is not the chair, he or she should also work with the committee chair on various tasks, such as making reference checks on the finalists.

The chief human resources officer, or his or her designee, will review committee materials to ensure their conformity to state law and district policy and will serve as a resource to the committee on these matters. The chief human resources officer or his or her office may also be responsible for coordinating the advertisement of the position.
In some districts, a vice president or other senior administrator serves as the president’s designee in final interviews. The number of candidates selected for final interviews and the involvement of the committee with those interviews will be dependent on local processes. The selection of the applicant to be recommended to the board of trustees for hire is ultimately the responsibility of the college president or district chancellor.

Training the Hiring Committee

Once the hiring committee has been constructed, it must be trained in accordance with the district’s EEO plan (Title 5, §53003(c)(4)). This training should go far beyond the legal requirements of compliance with EEO standards to include anti-bias training on issues such as components of implicit bias. Meaningful training is essential if colleges are to make significant progress toward diversifying their faculty and is one of the multiple measures spelled out in the Equal Employment Opportunity and Diversity Best Practices Handbook. Furthermore, this training should take place before the job description is written in order to assure that a richly diverse applicant pool is obtained and that qualified applicants are not inadvertently screened out because of biases in the job description.

The role of the EEO representative on the committee is to monitor the process in order to ensure that process adheres to the principles in Education Code §87100(a)(3) “that all persons receive an equal opportunity to compete for employment and promotion within the community college districts and by eliminating barriers to equal employment opportunity.” All members of the committee must have EEO training; however, in an effort to increase diversity according to the district EEO plan, each committee should include one person whose primary function is to ensure that appropriate procedures are adhered to and that the EEO perspective is maintained throughout all of the committee’s deliberations. Thus, the EEO representative on the committee must receive specific anti-bias and compliance training according to the district’s EEO plan and must have access to the district’s EEO officer for advice and, if necessary, to report any perceived bias that cannot otherwise be resolved.

Because language often contains implicit bias, committee members must receive training on elimination of bias before construction of the job announcement. Furthermore, many potential candidates that meet or exceed minimum qualifications may have little familiarity with the California Community College System and cannot be presumed to be familiar with common terms and procedures used in the system. Therefore, the primary qualifications listed in the job description should be phrased clearly and plainly. The details of the application processes and the meaning of such terms as equivalency, as well as how it may be demonstrated, should be provided to potential applicants. District equivalency processes should be clearly spelled out and easily obtainable for interested applicants who might not meet the minimum qualifications as stated.

Confidentiality must also be a central part of hiring committee training. Committee members will generally be asked to agree that they understand that the work of the committee is done in strictest confidence and that the committee members should not communicate outside of committee discussions with each other or with others regarding any of the candidates, interviews, or committee conversations, both during the process and following its conclusion. While local processes may have slightly different procedures for training committee members on confidentiality, such information should be a part of every hiring committee training in the state.
Developing Objectives

Prior to engaging in the hiring process, the committee should begin by developing clear objectives. While colleges are generally very good about explaining the specific types of courses a new hire would be expected to teach and how the committee wants the candidate to appreciate the diversity of the students, clarity must also be provided regarding professional responsibilities, what it means to be part of the campus culture, and any other attributes, skills, or knowledge that would help to define an ideal candidate. This information will dictate the design of the entire hiring process, including job description, applicant screening criteria, interview questions, and applicant selection criteria.

The first things for a committee to discuss and determine are hiring objectives. Ideally, the discipline faculty or the department would meet and have a serious dialogue about who the new hire needs to be, both objectively and subjectively. Some issues to consider include what strengths the new hire needs to have, what particular challenges the new hire may face, and what perspectives might be needed in the department. The development of objectives should be the product of extensive dialogue, such that the entire committee, working from the recommendations of the discipline faculty, has a common understanding of what characteristics are desired in this new faculty member.

The Job Description

The next challenge for the committee is crafting the job announcement to capture the agreed-upon objectives. Aside from the college’s required information that is included in each faculty vacancy announcement, the discipline faculty, in consultation with other committee members, must determine what desired qualifications are expected from a candidate as well as the minimum qualifications the candidate would possess. To broaden the pool of applicants, the authors of the job description may wish to include as minimum requirements only the standard qualifications from the Board of Governors’ Minimum Qualifications for Faculty and Administrators in the California Community Colleges, known colloquially as the Disciplines List.

The minimum qualifications as indicated in the Disciplines List simply allow an applicant to become part of a pool of candidates to be considered. A decision to raise the minimum qualifications should be made only after serious consideration, especially in disciplines that traditionally have a limited overall pool or a limited pool of diverse candidates. Depending on the position, however, more rigorous qualifications than stipulated by the Disciplines List may be desired. For example, if the new hire needs to have particular experience, have a license or certificate in a particular area, or be bilingual, these supplemental criteria could be included in the qualifications. Because raising the minimum qualifications often has the effect of limiting the applicant pool, doing so should only occur when the committee determines that additional qualifications are truly necessary to perform the duties in the job description. While constructing the job announcement, the authors should bear in mind that Title 5 §53022 requires that “[j]ob requirements shall include a sensitivity to and understanding of the diverse academic, socioeconomic, cultural, disability, gender identity, sexual orientation, and ethnic backgrounds of community college students.”
After determining the minimum requirements, the committee can consider preferred or desirable qualifications. This second set of qualifications, as well as any minimum qualifications above those in the Disciplines List, should clearly connect to the agreed-upon hiring objectives. For example, committees commonly give preference to candidates with California community college teaching experience. Unless data indicates that candidates with California community college experience are significantly more successful in serving students than faculty with other backgrounds, such criteria should be avoided. Criteria such as these not only serve to limit the applicant pool but often have other unintended consequences, including limiting the diversity of candidates. For instance, many recent graduates with experience as graduate teaching assistants but no community college experience, including graduates of nearly all historically black colleges and universities and graduate degree-granting Hispanic serving institutions, would be disadvantaged if this type of preferred qualification were included. In addition, while the committee might be willing to consider candidates that do not possess all of the preferred qualifications, candidates may be dissuaded from applying if the preferred qualifications appear to be insurmountable. As an example, a potential candidate without a completed doctorate might not apply for a job in which one of the preferred qualifications was a PhD in the subject area.

Desirable or preferred qualifications can include but are not limited to the following:

- Academic qualifications beyond the minimum set by law and regulation if these qualifications would provide the basis for better teaching or other service.
- Measures of pedagogical skill such as evaluations of prior experience, education in pedagogy, or demonstrations of effectiveness as a teacher, counselor, librarian, or other faculty member.
- Specific preparation to offer instruction or other service narrower in scope than a discipline; for example, when hiring a faculty member to teach piano, a college would probably require not only the minimum qualifications to teach music but also specific qualifications to teach piano.

Committees should identify the desirable qualifications that, when teamed with the minimum qualifications, will result in an applicant that meets the characteristics of the ideal candidate. The previously determined objectives should emerge clearly from the job description developed. Committees should also seek the assistance of appropriate administrators to be certain that the job description conforms to relevant legal requirements, particularly those noted in Title 5 §53022.

Once the job description has been approved through local processes, other individuals or offices should not be allowed to subsequently add additional qualifications. In districts where this sort of intrusion is a problem, the academic senate should request of the governing board that hiring policies be revisited and should revise them to explicitly exclude such practice. Interference with established policies in an ongoing hiring process should be cause for immediate alarm and may be a basis for terminating the process. Academic senate presidents should be alerted to any such intrusion when it occurs.

Finally, the language of the job description should promote diversity and inclusivity. A job announcement should do more than state what the college is looking for in the position; it should also convince the applicant that the college is a desirable place to work. In order to attract a diverse body of candidates, the job announcement should reflect the institution’s mission, priorities, and interest in inclusion and diversity. Colleges should look for every way possible to make all job announcement materials represent their institution’s commitment to all students and make them inviting to candidates of diverse backgrounds and perspectives. In addition, colleges should consider hiring as a means by which to foster a culture of diversity within the college community itself. By welcoming a greater diversity of applicants, candidates, and hires, a college has the potential to cultivate a more vibrant campus culture that may more accurately reflect the diversity that exists in the student population and within the community.

Advertising and Recruiting

At many colleges, the selection committee is involved in the development of advertising copy to ensure that the materials are clear in their intent, honest in their representations, and friendly to diverse populations. Because the job announcement is a recruitment tool, committee members may also include in the announcement and in other advertising copy information regarding the nature of their campus culture, the features of the campus and community that make it a vibrant and rewarding place to work, and the accomplishments or traditions of which they are particularly proud. Recruitment materials should communicate these positive images to potential applicants.

To develop a richly diverse pool of candidates, more will be required than posting the job opening in the California Community Colleges Registry or the Chronicle of Higher Education. Ideally, the selection committee should work with the college or district human resources and EEO offices to identify additional avenues for reaching potential candidates. Some examples include the following:

- Targeting related-discipline departments at other colleges that have large populations of historically underrepresented groups.

- Working with national organizations that represent historically underrepresented groups to develop further postings.

- Working with local regional consortia, industry, and other organizations to promote teaching in the community college system to potential faculty in career technical fields.

- Advertising in a variety of locations that increase the likelihood of reaching the most diverse pool of potential candidates possible.

- Connecting with discipline specific organizations representing historically underrepresented groups.

Beyond electronic and print mechanisms, faculty should, if doing so is consistent with local practice, consider face-to-face opportunities at local or regional job fairs, educational placement fairs, or other such venues. While human resources officers often attend such efforts, the committee members themselves may make better salespeople, responding to particular questions about the discipline, the college expectations, and the joy of teaching at the local institution.
Initial Screening

At most campuses, the selection of candidates to be interviewed begins with a review of applications. Any questions regarding equivalency for candidates are to be resolved, according to Education Code §87359(b), using procedures “developed and agreed upon jointly by representatives of the governing board and the academic senate.” Equivalency evaluations should be completed in a timely manner in order to ensure that all applicants are provided with equal opportunity to be interviewed or considered.

The screening process for minimum qualifications varies by district. In some districts, this screening is performed by the human resources office. However, a more effective practice involves discipline faculty determining whether a candidate meets minimum qualifications or might meet them through equivalency.

To have individuals other than discipline faculty complete the minimum qualifications evaluation could result in the loss of candidates whose qualifications would be evident to discipline faculty but perhaps not to those outside of the field.

The hiring committee should make every effort to ensure that review and selection procedures are free from bias and barriers in order to identify the best qualified candidates from diverse backgrounds. The following recommendations should be taken into consideration when evaluating applications:

- Assess ways that non-traditional or unconventional scholarship or research might contribute to the discipline, department, or college.

- Recognize that some individuals from underrepresented groups or other populations, such as those who were refugees, may have gaps in their education or might have taken longer to complete their coursework.

- Understand that many transferrable skills are acquired through alternative work or volunteer experiences and are no less valuable than more traditional pathways.

- Be sensitive to nonstandard ways in which applicants whose secondary language is English might utilize grammar, punctuation, word choice, and phrasing in the writing of cover letters and resumes.

The committee should have a screening instrument, or score sheet, which allows members to evaluate each applicant on the qualities listed in the job description. The responses on the screening instrument should be weighted to emphasize those qualities most relevant to the candidates’ performance of the work for which they will be hired. The scale for this evaluation should be agreed upon by the committee prior to the review of any applications in order to ensure that no bias enters into the process. Screening criteria should align with the minimum and preferred qualifications spelled out in the job description, although additional screening criteria, such as quality of application, can be included if the committee members agree and inclusion of such criteria reflects locally approved processes.

The committee should allot sufficient time for a full discussion of the members’ responses to candidates’ applications. This practice allows each individual member to process any thinking that might influence his or her perceptions of the applicants. Having an open and honest dialogue encourages members to ask questions about aspects of an applicant's background that they might not understand and creates an opportunity to reflect on any unconscious biases that might lead to the exclusion of qualified candidates from being interviewed.

Committee members should be encouraged to modify their scores in the light of insights gained through discussion, and at that point the scores might be given a major role in the selection of interviewees for the position. Because all of the documents used in the hiring process must be submitted as part of the legal record, committees may want to create a second rating sheet for this discussion phase on which they make notes and enter their sometimes revised scores. Both sets of scores, pre- and post-discussion, would then be submitted.

Once the decision as to who to interview has been made, the committee should establish a tentative interview schedule. At that time, both successful and unsuccessful applicants should be notified as soon as possible. The committee is unlikely to be responsible for notifying the candidates; however, this courtesy is extremely important, as any faculty member who remembers his or her own job applications will recall. The committee chair, if not responsible for this step of the process, should follow up with the responsible party to ensure that this courtesy has been rendered.

Interview Process and Questions

College and district policies regarding interview questions vary, with some colleges using a relatively standard set of questions for all interviews and other colleges allowing the discipline faculty or the hiring committees to determine their own questions. Some colleges may include a mixture of both: a set of pre-determined questions in addition to more specific, often discipline or pedagogically grounded, questions. The creation of the questions for the interviews should be done prior to the screening of applications in order to avoid any kind of bias in the questions themselves. If the committee is creating the questions, it may wish to seek out examples used in previous interviews for similar positions or from other sources, or the members may choose to create the questions collaboratively. The same questions should be asked of each candidate to ensure fairness, although some local processes allow for follow up questions or for clarification. The important aspect of the questioning process is that each candidate be treated in the same way and that no candidate be given either greater or lesser opportunities to make an impression than those extended to all other interviewees.

In the past, certain types of questions were standard in all interviews, most famously a so-called “diversity question” aimed at fulfilling Title 5 §53022; however, a more effective and useful practice is for committees to infuse qualifications such as diversity awareness or cultural competence into multiple questions rather than isolating those topics. Questions that require knowledge of a particular subject or terminology that is not a necessity for the position, such as familiarity with nomenclature commonly used in the California community colleges, may screen out otherwise qualified candidates and prevent them from being considered for a second or final interview, potentially impacting the overall diversity of the group being sent forward. Committees should consider carefully these types of questions before agreeing to include them; for example, in most cases a candidate for a faculty position would not need to know what Title 5 is or says. In order to ensure an equitable opportunity for all candidates, the committee should make every effort to ensure consistency and fairness in the development of all questions used in the interview.
Most faculty hiring processes require a teaching demonstration of some sort, and the committee should therefore also consider the question or questions for the teaching demonstration and the expectations of the candidates. Interviewees should be informed in advance of how much time they will have for their presentations so that they can prepare an appropriate demonstration within the allowed time constraints. Candidates also should be informed in advance if they will be allowed to use technology and what the expectations will be, such as if they will be required to bring their own computers, if internet access will be available for the candidates to use cloud-based documents, and whether they should bring sample syllabi or assessments.

In addition, committees should consider what kind of teaching demonstration they want to ask the candidates to provide. While in the past the standard demonstration often involved a lecture, pedagogical changes have led to many teaching styles involving flipped classes or having more interactive components, and therefore committees should be clear regarding what their expectations are in terms of the demonstration. For example, if the committee is instructed not to engage with the candidate and the candidate is not made aware of this instruction, the candidate might unknowingly prepare an interactive presentation and may not understand why the committee is not cooperating. Given the stressful nature of interviews, ensuring that the candidate is aware of what is expected ahead of time will be very helpful in allowing the candidate to make the best impression of which he or she is capable.

The committee may also want to consider whether or not to allow nontraditional interviews, such as online or video interviews, for the first round of the process. Because some colleges may not have the budget to reimburse candidates’ travel expenses to come to the campus for interviews, the cost associated with interviewing may preclude some potential candidates from participating in the process. Colleges in remote locations may be especially interested in considering the benefits of alternative interview options. Such allowances may enable colleges to reach a more diverse group of candidates. While some committee members may fall into the mindset of “if they want the job, they’ll get here,” colleges will benefit from making an effort to interview the candidates that they believe will be the best faculty hires, not simply the candidates who can afford transportation to the campus.

Selecting the Finalists

The selection of finalists for a position can be a stressful proposition for a committee, particularly if a divide exists among the members regarding whom the strongest candidates may be. Committees often fall into the trap of focusing on the way an applicant would fit in with the department, and while a potential hire should indeed be collegial and able to work with others, the needs and interests of students in the program for which the faculty member is being sought must also be considered. A committee should also be cognizant of the implicit bias that can exist when interviewing candidates whose experiences or educational paths may be different from those of the committee members. Relatively new graduates might be more interested in different forms of assessment than those traditionally used in a discipline; such a difference should not automatically preclude these candidates from consideration. The committee should consider a wide range of criteria when determining whom to recommend for final interviews, including the diversification of the department, growth and development of new curriculum, and the overall needs of the students and the college.
Different colleges and college presidents have a varied range of expectations and processes regarding the selection of finalists. At some colleges, the committee members are charged with sending forward only candidates that they are enthusiastic about, even if that means forwarding only one candidate or even no candidates. At other colleges, a minimum number of finalists is expected, and in some cases, a maximum number exists as well. A committee should recognize that in this former case, a failed search might be a more preferable outcome than sending forward unsuitable candidates simply to fulfill a requirement for an expected number of finalists. In addition, while limiting the number of finalists may make sense due to the constraints of a presidential schedule, such limits might also exclude a candidate that could be the best choice for the position.

Finalist Interviews

Colleges have a variety of processes for final interviews. In some cases, only the college president, the EEO representative, and the chair of the hiring committee are present in the interviews. At other colleges, the entire committee, or available members of the committee, may be part of the final interview, while in other cases only the president and other administrators are present. Some colleges require a teaching demonstration in the final interview, while others do not. Some presidents prefer a more casual approach to the final interview, almost in the form of a conversation, while others prefer a more traditional scripted interview format. Whichever process a college has chosen to follow, the president must be confident in the candidates that the committee has recommended, and the committee representatives must be able to articulate the reasons that the recommended candidates have been given the opportunity for a final interview. Committees must be able to be honest with a president or with his or her designee regarding the reasons that certain finalists were recommended and others were not, which is why the confidentiality of the processes is essential for all members.

Colleges may also want to consider scheduling alternatives for final interviews. For example, if a college requires that candidates physically travel to the campus for a first interview, the committee may want to schedule the final interviews as close to the first interview as possible so that candidates that are granted a second interview do not have to travel twice, especially if a college is not near an airport or is more remote. Alternatively, giving candidates several weeks to make travel arrangements might result in less expensive plane tickets depending on the destination. These kinds of considerations can assist in the diversification of pools and in bringing greater diversity to a college.

What Happens If a Search Fails?

Sometimes, despite the best efforts of a committee, a search fails. A failed search may occur due to a lack of diversity in the pool, an absence of qualified candidates, or other reasons beyond the control of the committee, such as budget cuts or all of the finalists accepting jobs elsewhere. If a search fails, local processes should be followed to determine whether the pool can be reexamined, new candidates can be considered, or other actions can be taken. For example, if a position is posted as “open until filled,” local processes might allow the committee to review all applications that have been submitted since the original closing date.
If a search is deemed to have failed, the committee may want to review the reasons for the failure and determine whether means can be explored by which to avoid these issues in future searches. For example, the search may have been conducted late in the year when the applicant pool was already limited, or similar searches may have been underway at nearby colleges, which might have impacted the overall quantity of applicants. For some colleges, external factors may play a role; for example, if a college is located in an area where costs of living are particularly high, candidates may be hesitant to take a job knowing that affordable housing would be difficult to find. While a committee may be able to do little to mitigate many external factors, the committee might consider ways to communicate these factors to the candidates prior to final interviews in order to ensure that candidates are aware of what to expect.

Other Hiring Processes: Part-Time Hiring

One of the myths about the California community college faculty ranks is that the part-time faculty in the system are more diverse than their full-time counterparts. Recent information from the CCC Chancellor’s Office has demonstrated that this belief is not accurate; however, part-time faculty play an essential role at community colleges and can be the first faculty members that students encounter when beginning at a college. For that reason, the hiring of part-time faculty must be done with rigor akin to that found in the hiring of full-time faculty.

Processes for hiring part-time faculty vary across districts, colleges, and even divisions and departments within an institution. Some colleges have set practices regarding the hiring of part-time faculty, including set interview questions, while others are more casual in their approach. Some colleges require a teaching demonstration, while others do not. While no single effective practice is universal regarding hiring of part-time faculty, consistent policies should be established and followed.

In a multi-college district, an equivalency granted at one college would also be valid at the other colleges in the district, so if a part-time faculty member were granted equivalency and then became full-time, that equivalency could potentially carry implications for the other district colleges in the case of a reduction in force or other action. Because of the variations in some disciplines, especially in areas such as art, physical education, and career technical fields, equivalency should be considered carefully when hiring an individual who does not meet the established minimum qualifications for the particular discipline. For more information on equivalencies, see the ASCCC paper Equivalency to the Minimum Qualifications (2016).

Other Hiring Processes: Full-Time Temporary Replacement Faculty

In some cases, a college may choose to hire a full-time temporary replacement faculty member, such as to substitute for someone on parental leave, to fill a critical function in place of someone who takes a leave of absence, or in other situations calling for a short-term, full-time faculty replacement. These positions often have no processes established for filling them, and therefore local academic senates should consider discussing processes prior to their colleges requesting temporary hires. The hiring of full-time temporary faculty can be viewed as another opportunity to diversify the workforce at the college.
Other Hiring Processes: Critical or Emergency Hiring of Full-Time and Part-Time Faculty

Whenever possible, a college should use its regular procedures and timelines for the hiring of full-time and part-time faculty. However, in some instances the need to hire additional faculty falls outside of predictable norms and calendars needed for regular hiring practices to occur. For this reason, hiring procedures should take into account the need for emergency or critical hires for both full-time and part-time faculty members, including what conditions should trigger the process, as well as providing timelines and requirements feasible within shorter time periods.

Emergency hires typically occur when regular hiring procedures are impacted by restrictive timelines due to unanticipated vacancies close to the beginning of a term. Often, these vacancies can mean unstaffed but populated sections of courses. As such, emergency hires may be necessary to serve students, disciplines or departments, and colleges. Some criteria to consider prior to initiating an emergency hiring procedure might include the following:

- The number of viable or populated course sections without an instructor and any impact on student completion and success that would indicate a clear need for additional faculty.
- Whether the vacancy is deemed essential for the viability of the program.
- Whether the vacancy is essential for purposes of accreditation, including external accrediting bodies.
- The amount of time for staffing remaining prior to the term of the identified need.

Generally, for emergency situations, the hiring of part-time faculty is preferable in the absence of specific and compelling circumstances to justify an emergency full-time hire. If, after filling the immediate need with part-time replacements, a full-time faculty member is needed for the long term, the subject area faculty may participate in the next round of considerations for hiring prioritization. If the emergency hiring of a full-time faculty member is necessary, the position should be a full-time temporary position, with the term of service clearly identified, in order to allow this position to be reconsidered at the time of normal hiring prioritization considerations. In all cases, emergency part-time and full-time hires should be required to interview per the college's regular hiring procedures within a reasonable timeframe after the date of the emergency hire. Emergency hiring procedures should not be used as a method to grow enrollment and college apportionment.

A college or district may choose to have different emergency hire procedures, depending on how much time is available between when the need is identified and when the term begins. For example, a college may choose to identify one streamlined process if fewer than twenty days but more than seven remain before the term and another more truncated process should the number of days be fewer than seven. In these cases, the local academic senate, in joint agreement with administration, should identify what works best for its college, as Education Code does not differentiate between regular hires and emergency hires when mandating consultation with the academic senate. Some items to consider when developing emergency hiring procedures might include the following:
• How a shorter timeline could impact the membership of the hiring committee, especially if hires are to occur during summer or winter breaks when most faculty are off-campus.

• How the membership of the committee is to be selected, including academic senate confirmation, given the potentially compressed timeline.

• How interview materials are to be reviewed, as well as the development of interview questions, teaching demonstrations, and other materials required for interviews.

• Changes to timelines and expectations for reference checks.

• The viability of additional interviews.

Beyond Hiring: Mentoring and Retaining New Faculty

The hiring of a new full-time faculty member is a lengthy and time-consuming process that can involve significant expense to the college, including the need for substitutes for faculty that are sitting on committees, clerical and other support from the administration, and similar costs. While a failed search is frustrating, perhaps even worse is hiring a faculty member and then having that new hire leave after a year or two at the college.

In some cases, the departure of a new hire is due to circumstances beyond the control of the college, such as a spousal deployment or other family matter that precludes the new hire from remaining. However, sometimes new hires leave because they do not feel that they have truly found a meaningful or comfortable place at their colleges. Mentoring new faculty is an essential part of the process of retaining new hires, and it is an element in which the faculty should be leaders. Mentoring is outside of the prescribed role of the tenure committee and therefore may be difficult at a college with a limited number of permanent full-time faculty. However, as such mentoring may be one of the most important means by which to retain new hires, colleges should do what they can to provide newly hired faculty with guidance and assistance in navigating a new college system in order to make them comfortable at the college and therefore more comfortable with their positions and their students.

Many colleges have established programs for first-year mentorship that bring together all of the new full-time hires for regular gatherings to discuss college culture, express concerns or frustrations, and receive information that might not be apparent outside of the tenure process. Creating a cohort for the new faculty benefits the new hires, as they see that their experiences are shared and that they are not alone, and it provides the opportunity for the new faculty to interact with senior faculty that they might not otherwise have the chance to meet.

A model mentoring program, from Sacramento City College, is provided in the appendices of this paper and includes a variety of ideas regarding mentoring new faculty. Other programs, such as the one at Foothill College, bring new full-time hires together weekly throughout their first year to allow them to hear from a wide range of guest speakers on a variety of topics from student services at the college to various forms of assessment. These types of programs provide the new faculty with a sense of community and may be the first line of defense against losing a new faculty member.
Beyond Hiring: Consideration of Administrative Retreat Rights

An additional factor that may impact a district's hiring procedures, including hiring prioritization, as well as the district's faculty obligation number is administrative retreat rights. Per Education Code §87454 and §87458, under two specific conditions a current administrator may invoke retreat rights to become a faculty member at his or her college, whether as previously tenured faculty or as a new faculty member who has not previously received tenure within the district.

The first condition applies if the administrator was previously a tenured faculty member within the same district and has been continuously employed by that same district. In this instance, the administrator may invoke retreat rights and, in so doing, retain status as a tenured faculty member at that institution. Faculty tend to be aware and supportive of this first condition, as it requires that the retreating administrator navigated successfully the college’s hiring and tenure processes prior to assuming an administrative role.

However, the second condition allows for retreat rights of an administrator who has not undergone the college’s hiring processes for faculty, thereby disallowing discipline faculty the opportunity to participate in the hiring of a tenure-track peer. Per Education Code §87458, “a person employed in an administrative position that is not part of classified service, whose first day of paid service as a faculty member or administrator is on or after July 1, 1990, who has not previously acquired tenured status as a faculty member in the same district, and who is not under contract in a program or project to perform services conducted under contract with public or private agencies, or in other categorically funded projects of indeterminate duration” does have the right to become a first-year probationary, or tenure-track, faculty member once the administrative assignment expires presuming all of the following criteria are met:

1. In mutual agreement with the academic senate, procedure is followed to ensure that the governing board relies primarily upon the advice and judgment of the academic senate to determine that the administrator possesses the minimum qualifications for employment as a faculty member in the appropriate discipline;

2. In mutual agreement with the academic senate, procedure is followed to provide the academic senate with an opportunity to present its views to the governing board before the board makes a determination, and the written record of the board’s decision, including the views of the academic senate, is made available for review pursuant to Education Code §87358;

3. The administrator has completed at least two years of satisfactory service in the district, including any time previously served as a faculty member;

4. The termination of the administrative assignment is for any reason other than dismissal for cause; and

5. A first-year, probationary faculty position is available to which the administrator may retreat.
If no currently identified first-year probationary faculty position exists to which the requesting administrator could be appointed at the time of termination, the college is not required to grant the retreat request of the administrator.\(^6\) While this second condition is less commonly exercised, should it occur, the situation may invoke feelings of disenfranchisement for discipline faculty who are appropriately accustomed to having an active voice in the hiring process.

The absence of local procedural language that captures the above requirements can allow a district to follow pre-existing procedures if such procedures exist, tacitly empowering the district with greater latitude for decision-making that may or may not include its academic senate. Therefore, academic senates should be aware of the conditions of each scenario, and colleges should develop corresponding procedural language by mutual agreement prior to any discussion of a previously untenured administrator seeking retreat rights. In this way, academic senates have the opportunity to participate in the development of appropriate procedures without the added weight of faculty discord or feelings of administrative overreach into the hiring and tenure processes.

For these reasons, local academic senates should work with their colleges to mutually agree upon procedures to accommodate each of these conditions and criteria. Development of a procedure should include a timeline for the district to communicate in writing the intent of the non-tenured administrator to invoke retreat rights. Where possible, the timeline should correspond to the ranking of faculty hiring priorities. Moreover, any timeline should be reasonable enough to allow for the senate to provide feedback, ideally prior to the issuance of March 15th notifications, to assure the senate that its feedback is to be considered.

As a part of the retreat request, the district should provide evidence that the administrator meets all of the conditions as required by Education Code §87458. The academic senate should be allowed to review the qualifications of the administrator to ensure they align with the most current edition of Minimum Qualifications for Faculty and Administrators in California Community Colleges. The procedure may also allow the review of the minimum qualifications to include a faculty member from the identified discipline. Best practice would also suggest that the academic senate be provided with the proposed job description to be assumed by the administrator. Where the identified position requires specific expertise, reasonable assurance that the administrator can fulfill assigned faculty duties should be provided by the district.

Based on the information provided, the academic senate should communicate its recommendations to the college president or the governing board. To best equip the academic senate, any procedure to accommodate an administrative retreat request might consider the development of an impact report, as such an appointment will likely have measurable impacts on the hiring prioritization process as well as impacts on subsequent quantitative and qualitative measurements of the affected subject area. In its assessment, the academic senate may also choose to consider additional impact on current full-time and adjunct faculty, the potential for other full-time hires in areas where the need is greater, the fiscal sustainability of the position, any impact on the diversity of teaching faculty, and any potential impact on student success.

When the governing board takes action either to approve or not approve the administrator’s retreat request, the board or its designee must provide to the academic senate in writing an explanation of action taken by the board, with reference to the written record of the decision including the views of the academic senate, pursuant to Education Code §87458.

Recommendations for Hiring Processes and Procedures

1. All campus personnel involved in hiring should be familiar with the CCCO's Equal Employment Opportunity and Diversity Best Practices Handbook (2016) and any subsequent updates from the Chancellor's Office regarding the requirements for use of the EEO measures while hiring.

2. Processes and procedures within colleges and districts should be as consistent as possible and should involve the academic senate in the development and implementation of those processes and procedures, as required by Education Code.

3. Faculty should consider a variety of options in hiring both full-time and part-time faculty in an attempt to diversify the faculty ranks at their colleges. For specific suggestions, see the Equal Employment Opportunity and Diversity Best Practices Handbook (2016).

4. In accordance with local policies, hiring committees should be actively involved in as many aspects of faculty hiring as possible, from the creation of the job description to the forwarding of finalists. If committees are not involved in all areas of the hiring process, consideration should be brought to the local academic senate to discuss these processes and determine whether changes should be suggested.

5. Processes for hiring part-time faculty should, to the greatest extent possible, mirror the processes for hiring full-time faculty and should, ideally, be as consistent as possible.

6. Committees should be familiar with the role of equivalency and should exercise caution when recommending equivalency while also recognizing that the granting of equivalency in some cases may result in a more diverse pool of applicants. Equivalency information should be made clear to applicants through information included in the college's application as well as in the job announcement.

7. Local academic senates and faculty should be involved in the district or college Equal Opportunity Committee and any other shared governance groups that are involved in hiring processes for faculty.

Conclusion

The hiring of faculty, both full-time and part-time, is at the heart of the success of the California Community College System and the ultimate success of its students. The involvement of faculty, through the academic senate and hiring committees, is essential to ensuring the strength of the faculty hired at colleges in all positions. As colleges move forward with hiring a new group of faculty, the needs of students should be at the forefront of each hiring decision, and the diversification of the faculty ranks can only serve to benefit students and the colleges that serve them. While hiring processes can be time consuming, they are among the most crucial roles that faculty take on beyond their responsibilities as teachers, counselors, librarians, and coaches. The conclusion of the Fall 2000 paper quoted the great philosopher Baruch Spinoza's Ethics, and the quote rings as true for this paper as it did for the one adopted in 2000: “All things worthwhile are as difficult as they are rare.” The hiring of faculty may be difficult, but it is a worthwhile endeavor that will serve to benefit the students in the California Community College System.
APPENDICES

The following appendices include two sets of information. Appendix A is the district certification form regarding equal employment opportunity funding requirements, certifying that multiple methods are being used by the college or district. Appendix B contains specific district and college examples of effective practices and documents in hiring, including emergency hires and mentoring programs.

Faculty Hiring Manual – Solano Community College (2017)

Specific Highlights from the Above Documents:

Part-time Faculty Hiring Procedures – Lassen College

1. At least once each semester, anticipated new part-time teaching positions will be advertised. Applications for part-time teaching positions may be submitted at any time to the Office of Human Resources.

2. The applications will be forwarded to the Minimum Qualification/Equivalency Committee chair for minimum qualification and/or equivalency review according to the approved policy and procedures. All applications meeting minimum qualifications will be placed in the Part-Time Faculty Applicant Pool.

3. The Division Chairs or Dean of Academic Services will recommend a part time faculty position to be hired from the Part-Time Faculty Applicant Pool. The Office of Human Resources will be notified when a position will be offered and will complete the employment processes prior to the part-time faculty applicant being placed in the schedule.

4. Coaching positions will undergo a screening/interview process similar to the procedures for hiring permanent positions. Coach committees will be comprised of a coach and a faculty member appointed by the Academic Senate, the Athletic Director, and an educational administrator or representative from Academic Services. By consensus, the Committee will agree upon candidates to invite to an interview. The Committee will present up to three candidates for selection by the President or Dean of Academic Services.

5. Full-time temporary positions will undergo a screening/interview process similar to the procedures for hiring permanent positions. Committees for full-time temporary positions will be comprised of a division chair and a faculty member from the discipline appointed by the Academic Senate, and an educational administrator from the Academic Services. By consensus, the Committee will agree upon candidates to invite to an interview. The Committee will present up to three candidates for selection by the President or Dean of Academic Services.
CCR, Title 5, Section 53021 “Recruitment for part-time faculty positions may be conducted separately for each new opening or by annually establishing a pool of eligible candidates, but in either case full and open recruitment is required consistent with this section.”

Hiring Practices — Los Rios Community College District

About Adjunct Pools: Los Rios Community College District recruits adjunct professors year-round. Applicants may apply to adjunct pools at any time. Applications are sent to campus when adjunct positions become available and are requested by the campus. Since, adjunct pools are on-going, emails reminding applicants to update their information are sent once a year.

About Temporary Pools: This pool of applicants is used by various departments throughout our district to search for applicants interested in working temporarily. Assignments may vary in length and hours of the day, up to 110 days per fiscal year per California Education Code. Temporary pools are generally open for six months. To keep pools up-to-date after six months the Human Resources Department will close the pool and send emails to applicants. Applicants that wish to still be considered will be instructed to re-apply to a NEW posting number.

- Human Resources reviews the diversity of applicant and interview pools for each position/recruitment, and takes appropriate measures if/when concerns occur. Applicant and employee demographics are reviewed annually with the Board of Trustees (Attached are District’s EEO Plan Analysis of Applicant Pools, Plan Component 10: Analysis of District Workforce and Applicant Pool, and P-5121 providing for steps/ review for ensuring diversity in hiring). Per the District’s EEO Plan and Board Regulations/Policies on Hiring Committees (R-5121 and R-5122 attached) each hiring committee member is required to receive required Title 5 Hire Committee training and each committee must include a trained Equity Representative.

- Each classified, faculty and management Los Rios CCD job application (attached) includes a section for applicants to address their experience/background related to diversity and cultural competence.

- Every Los Rios job description across all classifications includes the requirement that the individual demonstrate sensitivity to and understanding of the diverse academic, socioeconomic, cultural, disability, gender identity, sexual orientation and ethnic backgrounds of community college students (current job advertisements attached).

- The Los Rios CCD Faculty Hiring Manual requires hire committees to include screening and interview criteria on a candidate’s ability/experience with diversity. (Faculty Hiring Manual – Sections VI – A, VI – B, and VII – A).

- All classified, faculty and managerial interviews include at least one question pertaining to diversity. (samples attached).

- Per the Equity Manual on Hiring, applicant pools may not be released for review by hiring committees until both the screening criteria and interview questions have been finalized.
Upon a recommendation for hire, the Equity Representative completes an EEO Checklist (attached), which addresses the District’s commitment to equity, fairness and inclusion/diversity.

Special Hiring Situations — Lassen Community College

A. Emergency hiring may be conducted when time factors, special issues, or business necessity warrant immediate appointments as determined by the Superintendent/President.

   i. Emergency hiring may be conducted to fill a short-term “classified” position for no more than sixty (60) days to allow for full and open recruitment.

   ii. Emergency hiring may be conducted to fill a part-time teaching assignment for up to one semester.

   iii. Interim appointment for administrative and managerial assignments may be made for up to one year to fill a vacancy or a new position. When a regular faculty member is appointed to an interim assignment, procedures in Section 7 of the LCF A contract will apply.

B. In-house or promotion only hiring

   i. In-house hiring is permitted when it has been determined that no new position has been created according to Title V regulations.

   Whenever in-house or promotion only hiring is permitted by law, all qualified internal candidates will be given an opportunity to apply. Qualified internal candidates are regular employees.

   Procedures for classified in-house hiring are in the classified union contract.

Administrative Retreat Rights — Solano Community College District

Per EDC 87454 and 87458, there are two conditions wherein a current administrator may invoke retreat rights to faculty:

- Any tenured employee, when assigned from a faculty position, or assigned and special or other type of work, or given special classification or designation, shall retain status as a tenured faculty member.

- A person employed in an administrative position that is not part of classified service, whose first day of paid service as a faculty member or administrator is on or after July 1, 1990, who has not previously acquired tenured status as a faculty member in the same district, and who is not under contract in a program or project to perform services conducted under contract with public or private agencies, or in other categorically funded projects of indeterminate duration, shall have the right to become a first-year probationary faculty member once the administrative assignment expires or is terminated, if all of the following conditions apply:
• In mutual agreement with the senate, procedure is followed to ensure that the governing board relies primarily upon the advice and judgment of the academic senate to determine that the administrator possesses the minimum qualifications for employment as a faculty member.

• In mutual agreement with the senate, procedure is followed to provide the academic senate with an opportunity to present its views to the governing board before the board makes a determination and that the written record of the decision, including the views of the academic senate, shall be available for review pursuant to EDC 87358.

• The administrator has completed at least two years of satisfactory service, including any time previously served as a faculty member, in the district.

• The termination of the administrative assignment is for any reason other than dismissal for cause.

• There is an identified, first-year, probationary faculty position available to which the administrator may retreat, as, if there is no currently identified first-year probationary faculty position to which the requesting administrator could be appointed at the time of termination, the College is not required to grant the request of the administrator. (Ref. Wong vs. Ohlone College, No. A109823, 28 March, 2006.)

Procedures for Retreat Rights for Administrators Not Previously Tenured by the District:

• The Superintendent-President or the Vice-President of Human Resources will communicate to the Academic Senate President the intent of the administrator to retreat to a faculty position, as well as evidence that the administrator meets required conditions, when possible, this communication should occur as soon as possible and no later than the end of February of the current academic year to allow for timely input, including at least two bi-monthly meetings of the academic senate, prior to the issuance of March 15th notifications. The proposed job description of the teaching position will be provided as well. Where possible, these procedures should parallel the agreed upon timeline for the ranking of faculty hiring priorities.

• As soon as possible, the Vice-President of Human Resources shall arrange for the Academic Senate President to review the minimum qualifications of the administrator to ensure the qualifications of the administrator align with the most recent iteration of the “Minimum Qualifications for Faculty and Administrators in California Community Colleges,” adopted by the Board of Governors in consultation with the Academic Senate for California Community Colleges. The Academic Senate President may also include an appointee from the identified discipline in the consultation process. Where the identified position requires specific expertise, reasonable assurance the administrator can fulfill assigned faculty duties should be provided by the district. Should the identified administrator not meet the minimum qualifications, there is no equivalency process.

• Once minimum qualifications have been verified, the district, in consultation with the affected discipline and its academic dean, shall provide to the academic senate a revised job description, if relevant, as well as quantitative and qualitative data per the Department Profile and Summary of Projected Need form as outlined in section II.1 of this document.
• The completed Department Profile and Summary of Projected Need form will be provided to the Academic Senate and placed on the agenda by its president as soon as possible for information and discussion.

• The Academic Senate shall base its recommendations to the Board of Trustee using the same criteria it considers in discussing all hiring prioritizations. In addition, the senate shall consider the impact of the position on current adjunct faculty, the potential for other full-time hires in areas where the need is greater, the fiscal sustainability of the position, any impact on the diversity of teaching faculty, and any potential impact on student success.

• At the following meeting, or as soon as possible, the Academic Senate will take action to direct its president to communicate in writing its recommendations to the governing board. The Academic Senate President may also choose to speak to the item at a meeting of the Board of Trustee.

• The Superintendent-President will provide to the Academic Senate an explanation of action taken by the board in writing, to include reference to the written record of the decision, including the views of the Academic Senate, pursuant to EDC 87358.

Mentoring Expectations and Practices – Sacramento City College

• Meet with the mentee several times throughout the first semester

• Share his or her syllabi, and, if possible, copies of syllabi prepared by other faculty.

• Introduce the mentee to colleagues and staff within the department, the division, and at the college.

• Orient the mentee to routine college procedures such as textbook requisition, supply requisition, travel authorizations, forms (e.g., flex obligation form and course availability), duplication requests, parking permits, and key requests.

• Serve as a resource to explain departmental, division, and college practices, culture, and procedures.

• Include the mentee in formal and informal social activities of the department, division, and college.

• Provide assistance in learning new teaching techniques, presentation materials, student involvement.

• Introduce the mentee to the location of important instructional support services.

• Orient the mentees to the location of services available to assist students (transfer center, tutoring services, career center, assessment center, learning disabilities center, and others)

• Help mentee solve problems (curriculum, instruction, or relationships).

• Be accessible, trustworthy, and understanding.

• Visit the mentee’s class relatively often and give feedback.
• Encourage mentee to observe the teaching of other faculty.

• Give assistance if grievance issues arise. (See Dean, and or Office of Instruction, Equity Office.)

• Demonstrate professional competence.

• Help new faculty find ways to manage the administrative details of teaching

• Provide information to faculty, including directing them to the “Faculty How To” page at https://www.scc.losrios.edu/facultyhowto/
